PWA Crash

Bodies Recovered From Muddy Lake

VANCOUVER (CP)—The bodies of four men were recovered late Tuesday from the muddy, boulder-strewn lake in the British Columbia interior where they met their death.

Slide Tomb Isolated By Weather

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bad weather over Mount Waddington, 170 miles northwest of here, has forced postponement of a planned aerial search of the 13,000-foot peak where four climbers are believed to have been killed July 30 by an avalanche.

RCMP will make a check of the mountain face from the air to see if any of the four might have escaped.

Pacific Western Airlines pilot Capt. A. J. Moul and a skindiver found the bodies at a spot in Lorna Lake, 120 miles northeast of here, where a PWA Beaver float plane apparently crashed on takeoff Monday.

Capt. Moul was expected to take off from the lake either Tuesday night or today, depending on flying conditions, to take the bodies to Kamloops.

Pilot of the plane was veteran James Butler Marshall, 46, of Kamloops.

The names of the others, prospectors for Canadian Petroleum Exploration Company of Calgary, were not released pending notification of next of kin.

The plane crashed Monday but PWA did not release news of it until Tuesday morning.

It said Marshall had flown the men into the lake Monday and had cleared with the Kamloops PWA office in the early afternoon.

A plane was sent over the lake Monday night and it reported the crash.

Fish Runs Afoul Of Law

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police were glad to get rid of one exhibit after James Alexander Steele was fined $30 for theft Tuesday.

They returned to a city supermarket the packet of kippers stolen from there July 22.

Study Started

First Step Taken For Moon Lab

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—The first step toward establishing an international laboratory on the moon was taken Tuesday by the International Academy of Astronautics.

Dr. Theodore Von Karman of Pasadena, Calif., director of the academy, said a committee has been formed to work on the moon laboratory project.

He added that it was unlikely that the actual laboratory can be established before 15 to 25 years from now.

Found Adrift

Impaired Skipper Fined

VANCOUVER (CP)—The skipper of a fishboat found drifting without lights Monday night in the shipping lane at the entrance to Vancouver harbor was fined $30 Tuesday for operating a vessel while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

John William Retalick, 46, of suburban North Surrey, owner of the gillnetter ALM-7115, pleaded guilty to the charge.

A search was launched Monday night after another skipper reported Retalick's boat was missing. A tug taking part in the search found the ALM-7115 drifting without lights off Point Atkinson with the skipper at the wheel.

However, the committee will tackle such problems as how to build the laboratory and how to make it habitable for man.

Russia's space scientist, Prof. Leonid Sedov, told 700 delegates from 33 countries he hopes the world's research workers can co-operate because future rocket projects would be too costly for any one nation.

Sedov added that Russia plans more rockets to the moon and to Mars and Venus.

Reopen Talks On Arms Cut Canada Urges

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada Tuesday demanded new negotiations on disarmament and the United States offered to stop making fissionable material for nuclear weapons if the Soviet Union would do the same.

The Soviet response was cool—without a ban on weapons, there would be no point in ending the production of nuclear materials, said Russia's deputy foreign minister, Vasily Kuznetsov.

BACKED DOWN

These views were put forward at a meeting of the UN disarmament commission on which all 82 members of the United Nations are represented. The Soviet Union and its satellites backed down on a threat to boycott the meeting. The Soviet viewpoint is that the matter should go before the UN General Assembly next month.

Howard Green, Canada's external affairs minister, said "greater progress was possible and should have been made" at the 10-power disarmament talks which collapsed at Geneva June 27.

Green said there were a number of points of agreement or near agreement between the two sides that gave hope some progress was being made.

TERRIBLE THREAT

The disarmament commission, Green said, could "make clear to the nuclear powers that the people of the world demand an end to this terrible threat of a nuclear war which hangs over them and demand that disarmament negotiations be resumed forthwith."

French Ambassador Armand Berard in effect supported Green's appraisal that difficulties between the two sides on working out a control system for reducing arms could be eliminated by "patient research."

However, Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador, seemed to contradict Green's judgment when he said:

"There were no successful negotiations at Geneva and there will be no successful negotiations here or in Geneva or in the General Assembly next month."

He blamed the Soviet Union.

Castro Raids Navy

HAVANA (UPI)—Premier Fidel Castro cracked down on virtually every Cuban navy installation yesterday in a series of raids and surveillance actions, one of which he led personally.

Castro and a force of army men captured the navy's biggest arsenal, across the bay from Havana, in a dawn raid and arrested its personnel on counter-revolutionary charges.

It was reported that almost every naval installation on the island was placed under surveillance of the army.

The arrested men were reported to number in the hundreds, including many of officer rank and some as high as major.

UN Staff Seized Troops Told to Go

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—The Congo government, challenging the United Nations role in this divided country and arresting UN personnel, Tuesday proclaimed six months' martial law for the entire republic.

It also demanded withdrawal of Swedish UN troops.

The moves climaxed a day in which Congolese police and troops struck at UN staff members and Belgians alike in raids that emphasized Premier Patrice Lumumba's declaration of non-confidence in UN efforts to bring order to the Congo.

MENACING CROWD

A menacing crowd of Congolese surrounded a Canadian UN officer and his driver in a jeep outside the central post office, Sqdn-Ldr. Ken Roberts of Ottawa and Cpl. Gordon Mooney of Camp Shilo, Man., sat tight while the Congolese screamed insults and shook their fists at the Canadians. A few of the bolder ones rocked the jeep.

CONGO CRISIS

Lumumba charged that UN forces failed to carry out their duties and made martial law necessary to meet what he called a crisis in the Congo.

In his developing feud with UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, Premier Lumumba has asked for withdrawal of all white forces from Katanga province. He has been especially critical of the Swedes, Hammarskjold's own countrymen.

POLICE SEARCH

Lumumba's police searches even extended to the main residence housing most of the UN staff and offices.

Eleven members of the UN staff were arrested briefly and scores were searched.

A Congolese army detachment of about 200 men expelled a platoon of 33 Belgian paratroopers who have been based at the UN-guarded Leopoldville airport.

SHOW OF FORCE

The premier's show of force opened about 12 hours after UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold wound up his second visit to the Congo and left for New York to get a Security Council ruling on Lumumba's demand that UN troops back up the premier's authority.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union continued its campaign of criticism of the secretary-general.

Vasily Kuznetsov, Soviet deputy foreign minister, departed from Russian practice by volunteering to reporters the information he had formally criticized the secretary-general's interpretations of Security Council resolutions.

CALAIS, France (UPI)—Jane Baldasare, a pretty New York housewife, slipped into the English Channel shortly after midnight today to attempt to swim to England—underwater with skin-diving gear.

City-Bound Aircraft Crash-Lands

LANGLEY, Wash. (AP)—A private plane bound for Victoria from Tacoma made a crash landing in a field on Whidbey Island Tuesday when its pilot became lost in murky weather.

Dr. Kay Scott, 38, a woman physician, was taken to an Everett hospital with a back injury. Lt. Marshall Kline, 25, suffered minor cuts.

With them were Dr. and Mrs. Otto Rombouts, who apparently were unhurt.

Olive Oil On Fire Perils Town

PALERMO, Calif. (UPI)—A fire, fed by 30,000 gallons of olive oil, almost engulfed this small northern California town last night, destroying at least 10 homes.

Five hours after it broke out, the blaze was still out of control and was licking through the town, burning grass and trees in the yards of the 2,500 residents.

Sky Spy Powers on Trial Before Soviet Court Today

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. U-2 pilot Francis Powers stood up in a Soviet court today and pleaded guilty to a charge of espionage. (See also Page 21.)

The flyer—31 years old today—entered the courtroom improvised in the Hall of Columns of the Soviet Trade Union Building in downtown Moscow at 10:04 a.m. and took his place in the prisoners' box in answer to a summons from his three judges in military uniform.

Powers appeared to be in good health and showed no signs of nervousness.

He wore a well fitting, single-breasted navy blue suit and a dark red necktie. His dark hair was in a crew cut.

He carried a light blue cardboard folder which apparently contained material for his defence.

Under the blazing light of 50 crystal chandeliers and before an audience of 1,500 invited Soviet citizens, diplomatic observers and foreign and Soviet reporters, the trial began with the three judges questioning Powers about his family background and education.

He gave his name, home and profession and said his last place of work was Adana, Turkey. He said he had no objection to his two Russian interpreters.

In the rear of the hall were his wife Barbara, 25, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Powers. After the first glimpse of him, Barbara hid her face in her hands.

Under old Soviet law, the death sentence was mandatory for espionage. Now, the sentence can be as light as seven years.

It's All-Out War Here Today—Against Polio

Today is the day of concentrated offensive in Victoria, in medicine's war against the scourge of poliomyelitis.

The hospitals, the medical association, the public health services—these are ready with their primary weapon: anti-polio vaccine.

All they need are their allies: those members of the public who have had no polio shots, or who have not completed the series of three once begun.

From 1 p.m. to 10 p.m., at the nurses' residences of both Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals, doctors and nurses will be ready to administer the vaccine to all comers, and they hope all who need the shots will come.

Already 1960 is shaping up as a major year for polio. Paralytic cases—the ones of which official records are kept—total 103. There have been nine deaths in the province.

Anti-polio shots will hold the total down. They're free; they have no other after-effect; their administration is simple.

If you haven't had, or completed, your polio shots, the medical authorities hope you'll see them today.

How Serious?

Reds Admit Rift Exists

LONDON (Reuters)—Soviet and Chinese Communist informants in London admitted Tuesday differences of approach to the Communist role in the world exist between their two countries but said it would be a mistake to exaggerate them.

The informants were commenting on Western speculation that an open rift between Moscow and Peking may come sooner than anyone expects.

CHINESE FAVOR

The two Communist powers have been engaged for several months in an ideological debate about the likelihood of a war with capitalism, with the Chinese favoring it.

Experts here on Communist bloc affairs pointed out interests of the two countries are too closely knit at present for them to risk an open breach.

Against this are: Reports of a mass exodus of Soviet technicians from Peking for home, first appearing in the Yugoslav press, now received by non-Communist diplomats.

Articles in the Soviet press criticizing the "outdated" stand that war with capitalism is inevitable.

Debris Hid $157,000

NEW YORK (AP)—More than $157,000 found yesterday in the debris-filled apartment of recluse George Alchele, 73, included $1,000 bills stuffed among piles of newspapers, some of them 100 years old.

Police found $45,000 in cash, $112,000 in bank balances, savings bonds and cheques after neighbors complained of odors. Alchele, son of a wealthy real estate man, died two weeks ago—a brother, Henry, died in a litter-crammed room in 1956.

Britain Snubs Canada In Big Space Program

LONDON (AP)—Britain is inviting several European and Commonwealth states—including France, West Germany and Australia—to team up in a space program, but Canada apparently is not included.

Government officials, disclosing the invitations Tuesday, said plans under informal discussion envisage Britain's Blue Streak missile as the launcher for space satellites. They did not disclose the full list of nations invited.

Blue Streak was abandoned by the British government last April due to high costs. It was officially announced that Aviation Minister Peter Thorneycroft will visit Australia in mid-September for talks on the "possibility of adapting Blue Streak for space research."

War-Fearing Sect Quits 43-Day Tomb

BENSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Members of the Full Gospel Assembly ended a 43-day self-imposed entombment early Tuesday and immediately offered prayers of thanks that a prophesied nuclear holocaust had not occurred.

The 135 men, women and children of the religious sect went into underground bomb shelters July 4, fearing an atomic war. They sealed off their church and homes against fallout radiation and took with them enough food and supplies to last at least 40 days.

Spokesman for the sect said they received "messages from the Lord" during the night to go back to their homes, many located immediately overhead. Shortly after the group went into the shelters, leaders emerged to dispel fears they were in danger because of poor ventilation and lack of sanitation facilities.

Overlooking the Leaks

ANYONE who persisted in pouring more and more of an expensive fluid into a leaking tank in the hope of raising the level could scarcely qualify as a trouble-shooter. Yet that metaphorically is what the Dominion government is being asked to do.

The fluid is public money, and the riddled container is the unemployment insurance fund, which the government has been informed is on the verge of bankruptcy.

A special advisory committee of experts has warned that the fund is at an unsafe level. Supported by the leader of the opposition, Mr. Pearson, the committee has advised the government to replenish the fund by a contribution of $131,000,000 from the treasury. This would be equivalent to repayment of money drawn out in the last three years for the extension of winter benefits and aid to fishermen.

Such a course of action would be improvident and would not in any case restore the fund to anything approaching a safe level. Even with $131,000,000 from the treasury, the total in the fund would still be less than half what it was in 1956.

Some aid from general revenue may be necessary when the draw-off is above normal. But what the unemployment insurance scheme needs above all—and has needed these many years—is drastic overhaul which would include the detection and repair of leaks.

A scheme intended as a form of insurance has been allowed to embrace activities properly coming under the heading of welfare and charity. It is well known also that some of its provisions lend themselves to—almost invite—abuses which make beneficiaries of persons in no way entitled to insurance.

Pouring in more money may put off the drought for a while, but eventually the tank will run dry anyhow, unless it is rebuilt.

The Powers Trial

THERE is little doubt that American U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers will be found guilty of whatever espionage charges the Soviet Union cares to lay against him.

In fact, in a remarkable display of diplomatic ineptitude that shocked the world, President Eisenhower and his Secretary of State, Mr. Herter, have already admitted Captain Powers' guilt—and their own. The president followed the admission with as near an apology as was tactfully possible and the promise that the U-2 spy flights would cease.

It would seem, therefore, that the unfortunate Captain Powers' position is indefensible. However this does not mean that he will be sentenced to death or a long term of imprisonment.

Russia would have nothing to gain in calling for the supreme penalty—she has already attained her main objective in showing the guilt of the United States government to the world. She may simply use the forthcoming trial to underline its already admitted breach of international law governing the security of a sovereign territory.

Propaganda-wise the Soviet course is obvious: to find Captain Powers guilty but just the tool of a war-mongering nation and release him.

If such a procedure is followed the reaction throughout the world would not be hard to imagine. The Soviet Union would be looked upon as a peace-seeking humanitarian government which places love of mankind above international squabbles and intrigue of the day.

The United States would then remain the unpunished villain.

Pernicious TV Influence

THE noted FBI director, Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, has reported what he terms a "startling" rise in the American crime rate. This is not surprising. Many factors are involved in criminal behavior, but assuredly television must bear a great deal of the responsibility.

The preoccupation of U.S. networks with violence is scarcely less than appalling. Night after night they exploit crime in all its phases, coupled with sadism and brutality to a degree termed by one U.S. TV critic as a "national disgrace." It is hard not to agree with him.

Even the "heroes" indulge in much the same tactics as the "villains," regarding beatings and gun play as the answer to difficult problems. It is as though violence was the handmaiden of law and order.

With such an example it is no wonder that the crime rate increases.

Television not only glorifies crime but teaches TV watchers the tricks of the trade. These programs weaken respect for decent behavior, for the virtues that should be cherished by all civilized people.

It would not matter perhaps what programs American TV networks produced except that this bad influence overflows into Canada, through the large audience able to tune in to American stations. The pernicious effect of this nightly crime orgy is therefore a matter of deep concern to many Canadian parents.

There is little Canada can do about U.S. crime programs, but the CBC could eliminate some of them from its network. Television as a medium of entertainment and information has fallen far short of its possibilities; in large measure it has become victim to unalloyed brutality. The CBC at least should keep its skirts clean.

Removing the Props

IT is refreshing to note that three of the four major political parties in British Columbia are going to wage the provincial election battle without calling on the support of the big guns from their respective national headquarters.

This "go-it-alone" attitude is sensible—as any Liberal campaigner will concede after the C. D. Howe debacle in Morris, Manitoba. Then a cabinet minister in the government of the day, Mr. Howe came out of the east to set the west on fire and had his fingers badly burned in the process.

The ill-starred meeting degenerated into a verbal free-for-all which has since been variously praised or blamed as one of the major causes of the resounding Liberal defeat on the prairies in the following election.

After this episode, politicians of every color seemed suddenly to become aware of the fierce parochial jealousies abounding in most parts of Canada. And with the awareness came the realization that the importing of national leaders was a tacit admission that the local candidates were not only weak but did not even enjoy the confidence of their own party.

This, of course, is precisely what it did mean, and is as true today as it was then; applying as much to provincial elections as to federal elections.

If any provincial party feels its candidates are so weak that they cannot stand on their own feet without outside props, then the answer is surely obvious. . . .

Interpreting the News

Britain's Labor Troubles

By DAVID OANICIA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BRITAIN'S latest round of labor troubles has led to speculation that the country is facing a concerted effort to bring the economy to a halt in a bid to win greater employee benefits.

But the argument that there is a concerted plot in Britain's ports and power stations to paralyze the country crumbled with the settlement of the power strike during the weekend.

The power workers, scheduled to walk off their jobs Monday, decided to call off their strike when the management of the nationalized industry made a last-minute offer of a pay boost.

A dockworkers' strike threat has added to the troubles in British ports. Stevedores say they plan a full-scale strike in three weeks to back demands for more pay. Some are already out in a variety of local skirmishes.

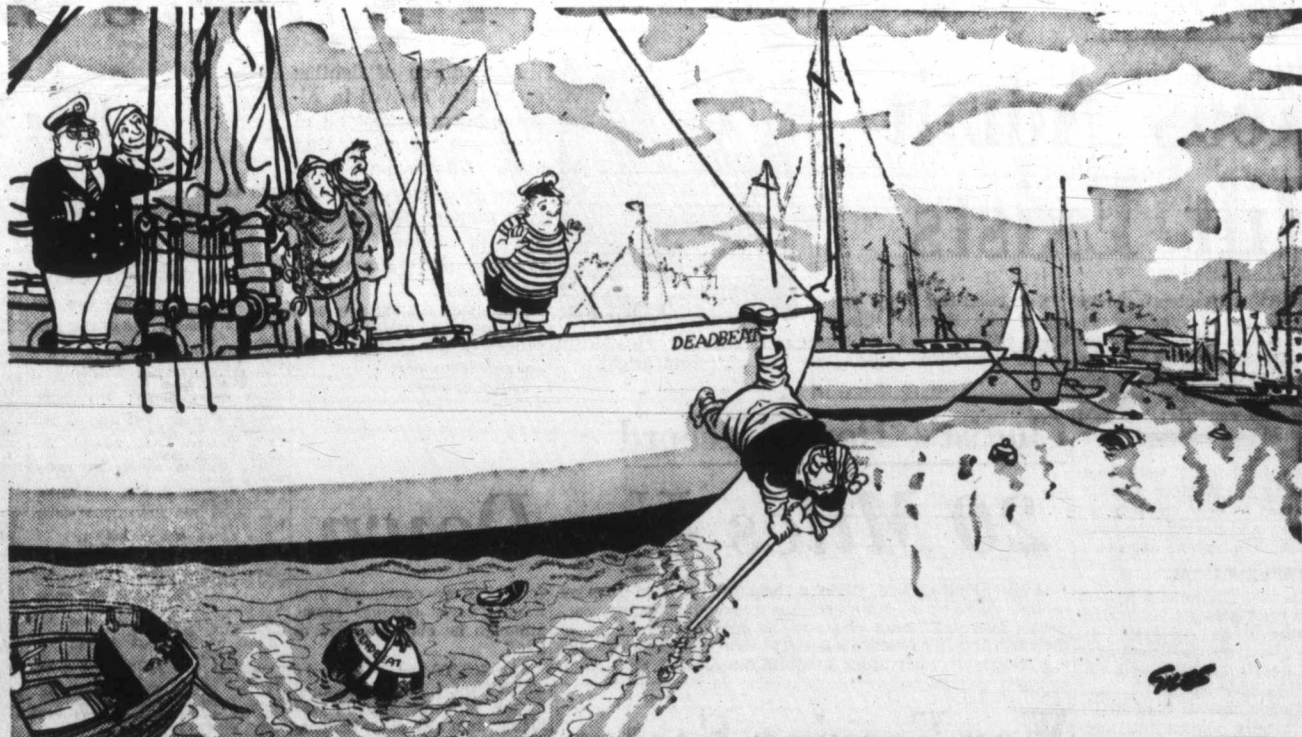

The wildcat seamen's strike, in progress a week, shows no sign of breaking. Sir Thomas Yates, general secretary of the National Union of Seamen, says the union is a victim of a "take-over bid." The wildcat strikers want greater benefits than those negotiated last week.

Sir Thomas indicates too, that outside influences, some of them Canadian, are helping to foment the strike.

This view has been given support by a report of a meeting of British seamen in Montreal. The Seafarers' International Union, led by Hal Banks, is said to have offered a sizeable contribution of funds to the unofficial strikers. An aide to Banks denied this.

The seamen's walkout appears to be another phase in what is shaping up as a year of labor-management strife.

Thinking Aloud The Common Market

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I suppose that really to know a butler one would have to live in a house—either upstairs or downstairs—that employed one. Otherwise butting has its mysteries, especially where a high-level butler is concerned.

Thus the Ottawa Journal suggests of the recent Kensington Palace episode that butlers may have an exalted notion of their sovereign powers, and the Lethbridge Herald, while sympathizing with the butler, applauds Mr. Anthony Armstrong-Jones in his determination to be master of his own household.

One may never hear the whole story, alas, until in their respective old ages either the butler or Princess Margaret write their reminiscences. Royal memoirs do get written, you know, and quite fascinating they can be too. The princess' uncle, also, has not been reticent about breaking into print.

Strange however how this princely affairs seem to be, tinged with the unusual. Other royal members go through life without one tithe of the attention that clings to this one small figure.

We may never know, as I say, the climax that erupted between Mr. Armstrong-Jones and Cronin the butler, although the Journal thinks that Jeeves would have handled the situation better.

This brings to mind the chief characteristic of butlers, aplomb; at least insofar as fiction writers and movie directors are concerned. Even if a hydrogen bomb were falling the perfect butler of these mediums would announce without a twitch of a muscle that dinner was being served as usual.

Mr. Arthur Treacher, for instance, the movie industry's most imperturbable butler, is the acme of this aloof, disdainful quality. And when in the "Thirty-Nine Steps"—the book, not the movie—Hannay took refuge in Sir Arthur Bullivant's house the butler simply froze his pursuers off the doorstep. By a mere upturn of the nose a good butler can make any one feel very small potatoes indeed.

A butler can overdo it, of course. The butler who saved Hannay was fictional, but in real life John Buchan's own butler ordered Lawrence of Arabia from the front door to the back entrance because he seemed only a humble caller in an airman's uniform. One supposes he never did this a second time without risking the fate that overtook the Kensington Palace butler.

Pursuing imaginary thought, therefore, and without prejudice to Mr. Cronin, butlers can be very lordly individuals. They may take unto themselves the aristocratic airs of their masters, only more so. A hundred years or so ago no man of fashion was worth his salt, as it were, unless he were carried up to bed after dinner. The phrase "drunk as a lord" is the lingering echo of that period. And the servants' hall felt insulted if the master was able to walk upstairs unaided. In such instances no doubt the master received a reproving look from the butler next morning.

There is too the example of the Admirable Crichton, who showed when Barrie put him ashore on a desert island with the Earl of Loam and his party just where the superiority of a butler came in. And as in turn Charles Laughton demonstrated in his Gettysburg rendition when playing butler to a wild west cattleman, butlers can be very superior beings indeed.

None of this offers any explanation of the Kensington Palace episode, naturally; nor is it meant to. Fictional and real-life butlers are not necessarily the same. And stories quite often have two sides to them.

Military Allies and Trade Enemies

By RICHARD L. THOMAS, Daily Colonist London Correspondent

THE United States is showing considerable interest in the problems of Europe at the moment—much more than would normally be expected during the political internum which characterizes American political life every four years—and the main reason is European trade disunity at a time when Russia is driving home advantage after advantage.

The basic problem is, so I am informed, that the United States, accustomed to British leadership in Europe, feels that Britain is slipping very badly and that the reason she is slipping is that she has stayed out of the European Common Market, set up the Free Trade Association in opposition, and is rapidly losing trade in consequence. In the American vocabulary trade and prestige are indivisible, and there is a great deal of lobbying going on.

The American view, it seems, is that Russia is taking advantage of trade dissensions to create political dissensions and in the process is successfully undermining NATO efficiency while turning on the heat elsewhere. Behind the scenes the State Department is campaigning for a united Europe with quite exceptional fervor.

The present British prime minister, Mr. Harold Macmillan, has been described by many people as a good European. He is also deeply attached to the United States; but he has also developed an increasing devotion to the British Commonwealth, and it is probably this conflict of ideas and ideals which is making Mr. Macmillan rather ineffectual at the moment. There is a conflict of motives as well as emotions.

The United States, for example, should declare its interest in the excellent theory of a united Europe. If Britain joins the common market it means that Commonwealth preferential tariffs would have to go. It would mean that Europeans would be free to work in Britain without restriction, and if Commonwealth tariffs were to disappear one of the principal beneficiaries would be the United States whose trade with the Commonwealth countries would increase considerably. Britain stands to lose about 12% of her export trade by keeping out of the common market but she could lose nearer 50% of her trade by contracting out of the Commonwealth.

Politically of course the argument is vastly different. The common market countries are dominated by the generally recognized unstable nations of Europe. France, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg and Germany were all over-run during the war; all have demonstrated political instability in one form or another, and none of them has shown the traditional powers of statesmanship and leadership. The United States argument is that Britain could be the political anchor of this motley assortment of ex-enemies and provide traditional political stability.

No one, for example, is completely happy about what may happen to Germany when Dr. Adenauer moves on or when General de Gaulle vacates the helm in France. The strong man of Italy has yet to emerge as a democrat; Belgium has demonstrated a certain amount of political immaturity in recent events in the Congo; Holland has lost her empire, and Luxembourg is a charming country of no political consequence except possibly for the writers and composers of musical comedies.

Britain's view is that this is really a rather impossible mixture but she is quite prepared to wait to see if it stays mixed. Britain's junior league on the other hand is broadly much more stable, with a much more traditional political outlook. Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Austria, Switzerland and Portugal, with one solitary exception, have tended to prefer democracy, to be peaceful internally and externally and broadly not over anxious to stick their noses into other people's business.

They represent the more stable element of European democracy and the wish to retain it is one of the reasons why they are staying out of the common market area. They do not wish to be bound by a supra-national authority and wish to retain their own control of trade whilst perfectly willing to enter into individual agreements.

The free trade area permits just this. The members have their own agreement but they do not prevent agreements with nations outside the seven. Thus Britain can retain her Commonwealth preferences. If the seven and the six can be fused it would obviously be desirable. But the American attitude seems to be that without Britain the common market may develop a political neurosis based on past differences and come crashing down in discord.

It is, after all, a very unrealistic situation when the six of the common market are military allies but trade enemies and an unhealthy division of loyalties which has no authority at all in history. It is a situation which is causing mild flutterings even in the unflappable Mr. Macmillan.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

WHO translates into English what Khrushchev says?

Whoever he is, he is master of semantics. I sometimes suspect that Khrushchev gets the benefit of a very smart translator.

Semantics is a fairly new science having to do with the meaning of words. The meaning of a word in English may have twice or ten times the force of the meaning of the same word in Russian. The translator of Khrushchev's wisecracks is, in my opinion, a master of semantics. Maybe the son of a gun is a Communist!

Having read in my youth the translated works of Tolstoy, Turgeniev, Dostoevsky and even Gorky, it seems to me Russian had little facility for wise cracks. At least, the translators of these Russian classics showed little fancy for the whipcrack of language. There was something laborious, patient, scholarly and plodding about the presentation of such tales as Crime and Punishment, and even Gorky's gloomy Lower Depths.

It could be that there are two styles of Russian as there are two styles of English—that which Mr. Macmillan, Mr. Herter and Mr. Dieffenbaker use, and that which the translator of Khrushchev uses.

The Burma Road

Awe-Inspiring Symbol

From The National Geographic Society

THE Burma Road, built as a wartime supply route to China, may soon be linked with an 8,500-mile Asian highway.

Plans for the highway, stretching from Ankara to Singapore, were discussed recently by representatives of 18 nations. Engineers believe the overland route could be completed in two or three years by connecting roads already in use.

Today the winding and looping Burma Road lies silent. Rusty, abandoned trucks recall the wartime drama of two decades ago. Gone are the daredevil drivers who could steer while battling hijackers. Gone, too, are the signs of roadside stores declaring, "G.I.s welcome." Grown now are the children in pigtail who shouted, "Ding hao, Joe. Got chew gum?"

For all its present languor, the mountainous Burma Road stands with the Great Wall of China as an awe-inspiring symbol of Asian manpower.

When Japan blocked China's ports in 1937, the Chinese looked for a backyard path as a supply line. A million villagers and tribesmen, including women and children, carved the road with hoes and hammers. They carried gravel surfacing for miles in wicker baskets and packed the roadbed with stone rollers shipped by hand from granite boulders.

Builders of the Burma Road flattened slopes hidden in the clouds on mountain ranges soaring 10,000 feet. They put up more than 300 bridges, including two steel suspension spans across the Mekong and Salween Rivers. They fought repeated land-slides caused by monsoon rains. Far from their homes, workers bivouacked for weeks in freezing weather. Many died of malaria in fever-ridden valleys.

But the road was finished in a year. It zigzagged 715 miles from Lashio in northeast Burma to Kunming, the capital of China's Yunnan Province.

The new supply trail followed one of the oldest caravan routes on earth—a path also used by Marco Polo in his journey to China in the 13th century. The highway rose at places to 7,500 feet, skirted precipices, and dipped beneath overhanging rocks. It rounded hairpin curves and occasionally descended almost to sea level. By jeep, the bruising trip took six days.

Each month, during the height of the war, some 18,000 trucks joggled along the Burma Road, pouring life-supporting goods into China. Though the backfire of trucks has not been heard for a long time on Burma Road, peoples of the region still use it as a local main street. Members of the Pai, Nanshi, and Liso tribes trek into towns to market lac, a substance secreted by scale insects and used in the manufacture of shellac.

In normal times, the devout Buddhists of Tibet made pilgrimages via the Burma Road to Tali, the site of a Yunnan monastery.

Ever since the Second World War, merchants in villages on the road have hoped that it could make a comeback as a trade route between Burma and China. The proposed new highway bisecting the Burma Road could hasten the day.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

At a recent literary cocktail party, crammed with authors, college professors, and various men of letters, a dignitary, flushed with alcohol, fainted dead away.

"Is there a doctor in the house?" called a voice.

Immediately came the query: "Of what?"

Overheard in a realty office: "First off, you folks tell me what you can afford, then we'll all have a good laugh and go on from there."

As the X-ray specialist walked down the aisle to say the marriage vows with a former patient, someone whispered: "I wonder what he saw in her?"

Cruel Farce

With all the furor about fall-out shelters, one point seems to have been almost entirely overlooked—a point which makes the whole thing a cruel farce.

Following blast the whole atmosphere is filled with radioactive poisons for at least 48 hours.

Thousands of unsuspecting people will take so-called refuge in the shelters. If the shelter is sealed, the available oxygen will be quickly used up. If the shelter is not sealed, the contaminated air must before long diffuse into the shelter, there being no means whatever of filtering out the poisonous radiation.

So what do the unfortunate refugees (having paid some $600, plus taxes) use for air to breathe?

Youth Hostels

I think that your young correspondents touring Europe are wrong in claiming that Hitler founded the youth hostel movement in Germany. I had a card and used hostels before the Nazis became the menace they did; in fact, I remember seeing "troops" being drilled in the woods in the Eifel hills in the demilitarized Rhineland and being told not to look—about 1927.

Too true, in later years Hitler's "youth" took over command of these hostels as they did with other organizations, including the Boy Scouts.

CCF and the Socialists

No doubt the double-speak of the Hon. Mr. Chant on Monday, Aug. 8, went unnoticed by his faithful flock of Social followers.

In referring to the CCF Mr. Chant said a "socialist" government would take away the benefits that Social Credit had given the people. Later—after being pressured into answering the question, "If the CCF is socialist, why is its platform basically the same as the other four parties contesting this election?" Mr. Chant admitted that the CCF wasn't socialist and that any Marxist knew that socialism meant abolition of profit and that the Toll Bridge Authority and the PGE were profit-making state organizations.

Why he accused the socialist who asked this question of being a CCFer is known only to Mr. Chant. No doubt, in spite of his knowledge on this question, he will continue to erroneously call the capitalistic CCF a socialist party.

Moral Issue

Your editorial entitled "Majority of Whom?" relating to the decision of the Liquor Control Board not to open a liquor store in the shopping centre at Shelbourne and Cedar Hill Cross Road, takes a rather surprising viewpoint.

We have always praised the editorials in the Colonist for their high ethical content, but cannot do so in this instance.

Let me quote: "This is not intended as a defence of liquor, which may or may not be a social evil; merely to point out that the moral issue should not enter into the board's decision."

Surely everyone, whether they drink or not, recognizes that social drinking is definitely an evil, and surely a moral issue is vastly more important than any other.

The Better Way

On reading and hearing so much about this Fallout Shelter business, what financial provision is made to the over-taxed citizen—the unemployed, the old-age pensioners and the millions of others who are struggling to make ends meet. They are the ones whom I think would prefer to work out a way to live in peace, rather than accept this war nonsense and carnage, which seems to be the order of the day.

Far better to build fireproof schools, hospitals and institutions, even houses to last longer, with the same concrete blocks.

$5,000,000 Oil Network Gets Go-Ahead from B.C.

A government go-ahead was given Tuesday for construction of a 130-mile, $5,000,000 crude oil pipeline network to bring the growing oil stocks of northern B.C. to refineries and markets.

Transport Minister Wicks announced that Trans-Prairie Pipelines Ltd., a Canadian company with extensive operations in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, has been awarded a government certificate to start immediate construction.

The 20,000-barrel-a-day line, first project of its kind wholly within B.C., will be operating in 13 months. It will run from the Milligan Creek-Boundary Lake area, some 100 miles north of Fort St. John, to refineries at Taylor Flats and Dawson Creek.

Trans-Prairie Pipelines was one of four companies seeking the certificate a year ago. It was then awarded to Peace River Pipeline Ltd., but this company later dropped the project because it could not agree with the government on a proposed hookup in Alberta.

Fearful Cubans Flee

HAVANA (UPI)—Cubans and foreigners alike jammed flights were expected to be scheduled by U.S. carriers, seeking to leave Cuba before new and more strict travel regulations go into effect next week.

Travel bureaus and the ticket offices of foreign and domestic airlines reported all available space sold for the rest of the week. Special flights were expected to be scheduled by U.S. carriers. As of Monday, all residents must apply for new passes to leave the country. They are valid for only one year. Hitherto, travel permits have been without a time limit.

The rush to leave stems from the fear that the new permits will be issued on a restricted basis. All existing travel permits are invalid after the end of the week.

The Cuban Communist party, meanwhile, staged its first open national assembly since the triumph of the Castro revolution Jan. 1, 1959. Prior to the date the party was outlawed.

Delegates came from at least 10 countries, including Russia, China, North Korea and East Germany.

A "fraternal delegate" from Costa Rica, Arnaldo Ferrero, attacked the sixth consultative assembly of American foreign ministers at San Jose, Costa Rica, which opened yesterday.

'Bothered' Roa Ready to Leave

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa threatened Tuesday to withdraw from the Organization of American States foreign ministers' conference unless Costa Rican security police stop bothering the Cuban delegation.

The police disarmed gun-toting members of the delegation Monday and broke up a serenade outside the Cuban quarters.

MOLESTING

Roa charged the security force with molesting the Cubans.

Roa made his threat after police chased away a crowd of 150 that tried to serenade the Cubans in a luxurious home rented for the delegation.

REGRETTED

Alfredo Vargas, foreign minister of Costa Rica, said he regretted the routing of the serenaders. But he said his nation's chief concern is to maintain a climate of order during the 21-nation conference, called to discuss Caribbean tensions.

An expected anti-American demonstration did not develop as a crowd of about 150 greeted U.S. State Secretary Herter.

PRINCIPLES

He said the foreign ministers "will strive to work hard to preserve the principles of democracy in the western hemisphere and to intensify the bonds that unite American nations."

First session today will take up Venezuela's demand for sanctions against the Dominican Republic for abetting anti-Venezuelan plotters.

Grain Market

WINNIPEG (CP) — Flax took on a stronger appearance yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Renewed export interest in Canadian flax was shown. Offerings were on the light side, while prices responded to international support. Trade reports indicated small parcels of Canadian flax had been sold for export to the United Kingdom and some inquiry from the Continent was reported.

Oats and barley trade continued on the quiet side with a few routine domestic shipping orders in connection with feed supplies. Offerings were light.

Rye trade was irregular with evidence of small hedging sales in connection with deliveries.

There was no information

Dispite some losers, electronics, vending machines, rails, aircrafts, utilities and autos were higher on balance. Drugs seemed depressed by word of price cuts among some leading producers. Steels backed away from gains and the leaders were no better than mixed.

Thirteen of the 15 most active stocks rose. The gainers included Sverel, up 1%, General Instrument, up 3/4%, Underwood, up 4/4%, Decca, up 1/2, Western Union was strong and up 1/4.

Distillers Seagrams rose 1/2 on the Canadian list. Canadian Pacific, Granby Mining and Walker Gooderham had fractional falls. International Nickel climbed 4/4.

On the American exchange Scurry Rainbow Oil fell 1/4. Other Canadian stocks remained unchanged with a few fractional gains and losses.

MONTREAL Firm

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges closed Tuesday on a firm note after an early afternoon decline. Trading was moderate.

Bank of Montreal gained 1/4 at 53% to lead winners. Macmillan Powell River at 15%, Imperial Oil at 33% and Union Gas at 14% all climbed 1/4. Advances of 1/2 were made by B.A. Oil at 29, International Utilities at 34% and Steinberg A at 19.

The few losers included Alberta Gas Trunk at 22 1/2 and Interprovincial Pipe Line at 54 1/2, both off 1/4 and Molson

Lakehead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat all were up 1/4 from Monday.

DO YOU KNOW
9 the reasons why
VICTORIA NEWSPAPERS give you MORE for your advertising dollars?

THE REASONS

THE FACTS

THE ADVERTISERS BENEFIT

1. ADVERTISING AUDIENCE IS LARGER THAN ANY OTHER MEDIUM

Read daily by virtually every Greater Victoria family! Only a fraction are exposed to a given ad in other media.

Every day—your advertisement in the Victoria daily newspapers reaches 45,375 households in Greater Victoria and over 52,000 in total on Vancouver Island.

2. PEOPLE WANT ADVERTISING IN NEWSPAPERS MORE THAN IN ANY OTHER MEDIUM

According to a recent survey in a selected Canadian city covering all income groups, 89% wanted newspaper advertising compared with 59% for TV and 40% for radio.

People feel friendly toward your advertising in the Victoria daily newspapers and your product . . . you never annoy . . . you are WANTED.

3. ADVERTISING READERS ARE "READY-TO-BUY" PROSPECTS

Readers of Victoria daily newspaper advertisements are interested in what you have to offer. They are LIVE prospects, not entertainment seekers.

Live prospects are easy to sell . . . they want information . . . they WANT to be sold. They buy the Victoria daily newspapers for advertising as well as news — no newspaper ever built circulation without advertising.

4. NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING GETS MORE ACTION

No other medium has the combination of ACTION and BELIEVABILITY to the degree found in newspapers.

When people BELIEVE and an atmosphere of ACTION is present, your advertising gets prompt results. The Victoria daily newspapers possess institutional prestige and authority reflected in their advertising columns.

5. NEWSPAPER CIRCULATION IS KNOWN

INDEPENDENTLY-AUDITED circulation is your GUARANTEE to known circulation in your market area and assures you of an audience greatly in EXCESS of the circulation.

Each copy of the Victoria daily newspapers going into Greater Victoria homes is read by virtually every person of reading age in the household. All members of the family are interested in the newspaper—and it is read because it is paid for!

6. GREATER FORMAT FLEXIBILITY

Flexibility in SIZE . . . from a few lines to multi-page spread.
Flexibility in COPY . . . one word to thousands of words.
Flexibility in DISPLAY . . . words, pictures, illustrations, color.

The wide physical flexibility permits you to tell your story in many different ways whether in one AD, one campaign or a continuing advertising program from year to year.

7. OUTSTANDING RETAIL SALES POTENTIAL

Greater Victoria retail merchants and service establishments invest more advertising money in the Victoria daily newspapers than all other media combined!

During more than 100 years of service, the Victoria daily newspapers have accumulated the overwhelming endorsement of successful advertisers. This provides a sales potential greater than that of any other medium.

8. THE SAFEST AND SUREST ADVERTISING DOLLAR INVESTMENT

Victoria's two daily newspapers' circulation and reader coverage are constant and consistent . . . unaffected by seasonal variations . . . concerned with all activities . . . they are looked to for guidance, accuracy and believability.

Newspaper advertising is the one medium wanted, sought and paid for by readers . . . and when you plan to sell, you SELL!

9. NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING LIVES

Your newspaper is the only available advertising medium which awaits the convenience of the buyer . . . other media are of the fleeting moment, and at that moment available to only part of the audience.

Your newspaper advertising lives for many hours, often days . . . it can be read, re-read, cut out and saved for shopping—it is always read at a time when prospective customers are interested and receptive!

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Effects of the formation of the American Football League are already to be seen in the Western Inter-Provincial Football Union. Perhaps only Saskatchewan Roughriders, who had nowhere to go but up after their 1-15 performance last year, can be said to have improved. And the big reason is that it is much harder to come by top-notch import talent now that there are two professional leagues in the United States.

Hardest hit by the increased competition for the graduating U.S. college star are the B.C. Lions. They have the most money to spend and had hoped to at least partially make up for the loss of important players and the lack of enough calibre Canadian talent by being able to entice better imports than their WIFU rivals.

Lions did have some success in recruiting new U.S. talent. Halfback Bob Jeter could even be better than the man he replaces, Ed Vereb, and end Bill Herron and quarterback Jim Walden, who will make Randy Duncan scrap for his job, are worthwhile additions. But pre-season injuries which did in their two most-promising new linemen and a duplication of values at the fullback position, where they were strongest, have left the Lions little better off in import strength than they were in 1959.

Addition of Jeter and Herron and improved quarterbacking along with improvement from halfback Willie Fleming and fullbacks Don Vico and By Bailey have made the Lions vastly more interesting and considerably more potent on attack. But what is potentially as fine a backfield as there is in Canadian football is somewhat hobbled by a so-so offensive line and not likely to be potent enough often enough to make up for a defensive unit which was still in the building stage before losing, in the past two seasons, such stalwarts as Canadians Don Lord, Ted Tully, Chuck Quilter and Mart Martinello and imports Bill Jessup and Curt Lauke.

So, there is doubt that the Lions will be able to match last season's 9-7 record, which put them in the playoffs for the first time, in a league which is certainly no stronger overall than it was in 1959. At best this will be a mark-time year—and marking time is actually losing ground for the youngest and richest member of the WIFU.

It figured, of course, that Winnipeg Blue Bombers would be hurt the least by the setting up of a second U.S. pro league. They became the champions because they already had the best talent and could only be threatened by improvement of their opposition.

Bombers may not be quite as powerful as they were last season because not even they can fall to miss a quarterback such as Jim Van Pelt. But they had in Kenny Ploen the second best quarterback in the WIFU and with a stand-pat club should win just as easily as they did last year, when they ran up a 12-4 league record.

Calgary Stampede can expect even more from quarterback Joe Kapp as a sophomore than they got as a rookie but there is no noticeable sign of improvement in the football club. And that, again, leaves Edmonton Eskimos as the club with the best chance of seriously challenging the Grey Cup holders.

The Eskimos will always be dangerous as long as Jackie Parker is whole. He has been the most for some time and his performance Monday in his club's opening game did nothing for the arguments of those who feel that the Mississippi flash must be about ready to slow up.

But there is more to be said for the Esk. Johnny Bright, too, shows no signs of slowing down and Normie Kwong should still be able to help. Import Joe-Bob Smith is coming on as a standout halfback, linebacker Ted Tully is back after a season with the Lions and Edmonton keeps coming up with fine Canadian talent such as fullback Mike Lashuk and halfback Howie Schumm. This could be the season both will become full-fledged stars. It could be that this is the club which has gained the most over last year.

Roughriders will be tougher but can't be rated as a play-off threat. It should be quite a battle between the Lions and Stampede for that third playoff spot, and I like the Lions to make it if they can avoid serious injury to such indispensable as Tom Hinton and Urban Henry. Stampede could make it easily with Kapp and superior linemen but that offence potential in the B.C. backfield is intriguing.

Strangely enough, the AFL appears to have made little difference to teams in the Big Four, which very much looks like an improved league this season because Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes seemingly have improved enough to threaten Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Ottawa Rough Riders.

Alouettes still have Sam Etcheberry and Hal Patterson and have added ground strength to go with Canadian football's best air attack in Dick Clarke, former Ohio State All-American, and Dick Cohee, a colored speedster from a small California school.

A dormat for some years, Argos have found a quarterback to hold his own with the best in Tobin Rote, a veteran from NFL, and have halfback Dave Mann back in a backfield which also includes Cookie Gilchrist and Dick Shatto. And they have recruited well, getting such college stars as Jim Andreotti, linebacker from Northwestern and end Bill Striling as well as several proven new Canadians.

Ottawa also seems stronger and the guess here is that the Ti-Cats may not finish better than third, behind Ottawa and Toronto, and might even drop all the way from the top to the bottom.

Scenery Magnificent On Roman Viaduct

ROME (AP)—Pestered by Peeping Toms, girl athletes at Rome's Olympic Village took refuge Tuesday night behind bedroom windows hastily blocked up with paper. The peeping did not come from the nearby Olympic Games men's quarters—but from the Italian capital's brand new elevated Corso Francia.

The Corso Francia is a four-lane highway running over the top of the Olympic Village. A mile long, it connects Rome's Flaminio Bridge with the smart Parioli residential section. At one point the viaduct runs about 50 yards from the girls' quarters and affords a superb view of a battery of bedrooms. An Olympic official said the girls first noticed the peepers Monday night. "At one time," he said, "about 50 cars seemed to be parked on the Corso Francia. The girls reported the peepers."

No curtains are available as yet for a large number of rooms, so non-transparent paper was used in the cause of privacy. An eight-foot high fence separates the girls' quarters from those of the men. Atop the fence are steel spikes—pointing toward the men's dormitories. However, almost every country entered has a pole vaulter capable of clearing 13 feet.

Veteran Quarterbacks Hot As Argos, Alouettes Win

Two veteran quarterbacks, target, Hal Patterson, put one starting his ninth season in Canadian football and the other his first after 10 years in a National Football League star, indicated things could be considerably different in the Big Four by leading their clubs to upset victories in the league's 1960 openers.

Sam "The Rifle" Etcheberry completed 26 of 43 pass attempts for 407 yards as Montreal Alouettes rolled over the champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats, 23-10, before 23,531 Montreal fans.

At Ottawa, ex-NFL ace Tobin Rote disappointed 20,321 fans as he tossed three touchdown passes for Toronto's revamped Argonauts in a 21-7 triumph over the favored Rough Riders. Both games produced spectacular football which was replete with sensational long-gaining plays.

Etcheberry and his favorite

White fielded an Etcheberry punt 12 yards deep in his own end zone, baffled a host of tacklers when it appeared certain he would be rouged, and raced right to the Montreal five-yard line. There he fumbled after being clobbered by the pursuing Veryl Switzer, who recovered the ball. Alouettes promptly marched 100 yards, kicked for a point when stopped.

Steve Oneschuk, converting the touchdown by Grant and kicking a field goal, got Hamilton's other points. Etcheberry, on a one-yard quarterback keep, and linebacker George Feiderich, intercepting a pass and running 50 yards, got Montreal's other two touchdowns. Bill Bewley converted all three major scores, got two single points on wide field-goal attempts.

Patterson caught five passes for 153 yards and Don Clark caught eight of Etcheberry's throws and picked up 45 of the 51 yards Montreal gained on the ground. Ti-Cats had 243 yards rushing and 118 in the air on three completions in 12 throws.

DEFENCE SHINES

Toronto's predominantly home-brew defence shared honors with Rote and halfback Dave Mann at Ottawa. Riders, trailing by 7-14 with three minutes left, were stopped in three tries from the five-yard line for the tying touchdown.

Argos took over, cinched it with 70 seconds left when Rote and Mann teamed up for a forward pass play which took Mann 103 yards for a touchdown.

It was the third time in the game the pair combined for huge gains on pass plays, but only two of them counted. A 102-yard scoring play was

Ford Shuts Out Orioles; Pirates Win Twin-Bill

Casey Stengel may have done more than "Poussé Mickey" Mantle when he benched his power-hitting outfielder Sunday and gave him a dressing down for failure to run out an infield hopper which was turned into a rally-ending double play.

Mantle last night wasn't able to duplicate his Monday heroics — a pair of two-run homers which beat Baltimore, 4-3 — but his buddy, Whitey Ford, took up the challenge to keep New York Yankees atop the American League.

Starting with only two days of rest, Ford pitched his second straight three-hit, 1-0 shutout to drop the ambitious Orioles a game and a half off the pace. A hit batsman and singles by Yogi Berra and Johnny Blanchard was enough to give Ford his decision over rookie Chuck Estrada. Ford's victims on Saturday were Washington Senators.

It was only the ninth win in 16 decisions for Ford this season but his last two starts have considerably eased an almost-panic pitching situation for Stengel.

The veteran southpaw, who'll be 32 later this year, has never won as many as 20 games in a season but ever since he joined the Yankees in 1950 he has been one of the most effective pitchers in the major leagues. He owns the best won-lost average, 130-57, and best earned-run average, about 2.60, of any active pitcher and through the years has won the "big" games for his club.

SOX WIN
He was needed at his best yesterday. Chicago White Sox kept right on the pace, only a half game behind, by nipping Detroit Tigers, 3-2, with two unearned runs in the eighth inning. The runs scored when Jim Landis and Nellie Fox tried a double steal and catcher Harry Chitt threw the ball into the outfield.

In the National League, Pittsburgh Pirates continued to follow a ledown with a win streak as they crept a bit closer to their first world series appearance since 1927.

Steady pitching and hitting which ranged from the home run to the bunt carried the Pirates to 11-2 and 4-3 victories over Philadelphia and extended their latest winning streak to six games.

FACE TO RESCUE
Bob Friend eased to his 13th win in the opener as Roberto Clemente and Bob Shriver each drove in three runs. In the second game, El Roy Face came to the rescue of Joe Gibbon when Robin Roberts put up a stiff argument for the Phillies, won his seventh game when his teammates came up with an eighth-inning bunt attack.

Successful bunts by Dick Groat, Skinner and Rocky Nelson loaded the bags and upset Roberts long enough for Clemente to draw a run-scoring base on balls.

St. Louis Cardinals, their pennant bid apparently ended, lost their fifth in a row as the San Francisco Giants showed further signs of coming out of a tailspin which wrecked their pennant chances.

Juan Marichal, the sensational rookie right-hander, won his fourth game by holding the Giants to one run in the eighth.

Gorge Saw Big Opening; Leaped in to Series Win

Gorge Hotel saw an opportunity, took it, and as a result are in the driver's seat of the Central Park Softball League final playoff series with Farmers.

Gorge, who finished third, knocked off second-place Mayo Lumber three straight in the semi-final and then dumped Farmers, 7-2, last night in the opening game of the best-of-seven final.

Second game will be held at Central Park Thursday beginning at 6.15.

Trailing 2-1 in the fifth inning, with two out, Gorge's Bill Benn hit a grounder to second baseman Bob Emberton of Farmers. He booted the grounder to put Benn on base, and before Farmers realized what happened, Gorge rapped out three straight singles and Vern Evans' two-run triple and scored four runs.

Gorge had it easy the rest of the way. Their pitcher, Stan Wargo, really bore down with the unexpected hitting help and wound up with nine strikeouts for the evening.

Jim Peterson of Mayo took away the major share of the Cards to four hits, a total over by Milwaukee Braves, who sneaked by Cincinnati Reds, 2-1, on the pitching of Warren Spahn and the hitting of Hank Aaron, who drove in both the runs for the winners. Victory was the 14th of the season for Spahn and the 28th of his brilliant career.

Shamrocks Bow In First Game

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—New Westminster Salmonbellies opened defence of their Western Canada Junior Lacrosse crown by wallowing Victoria Shamrocks 17-4, here Tuesday night in the opening game of a best-of-three series.

Second game of the B.C. final series goes Friday at Nanaimo.

Salmonbellies, who have lost only one of 26 games this season, ran Shamrocks into the ground with a powerful scoring display.

Leading the winners was speedy forward Doug Wallsmith who fired three goals and had four assists. Lanky Bob Bateman had three goals for New Westminster.

Bill Munro topped Victoria with a goal and an assist.

Speaking Briefly Belgian Team Beat Canada In Basketball

Canada's basketball team suffered its first loss of the pre-Olympic tournament at Bologna, Italy, last night, bowing 76-60 to Belgium.

The Belgians captured their third straight victory and handed Canada its first loss in three games. Despite the defeat, Canada is assured of a spot in the eight-team round-robin elimination series to decide which countries will fill the five berths still open in the Olympic competition.

The Belgians overcame a height disadvantage with pinpoint accuracy on the outside shots and a tight defence. John McKibbin collected 15 points to lead Canada, however, while Ray Monnot dropped in 12.

GERRY JAMES and Jackie Parker, two familiar names in the upper bracket of WIFU scoring, again have taken the lead with the season just a week old. James of Winnipeg leads with 16 points while Edmonton's Parker has 15. . . Herb Elliott was beaten by fellow-Australian Tony Blue in an 800-metre Olympic trial race at Sydney last night. Elliott was suffering from an upset stomach at the time, he said. . . Amos Alonso Stagg celebrated his 98th birthday Tuesday. Famed California grid coach was given Football Hall of Fame gold medal as memento. . . Calgary Stampede centre Kurt Burris after Don Winnipeg. Wingback George Tait will be out of action for about eight weeks with a broken right leg, suffered in the game.

Navy Golfers After Cups

U.K.'s Track Hopes Dim

LONDON (Special) — Britain's track and field stars face slim pickings in Rome this month. Although national records have been smashed regularly on the home front during the buildup for the Olympic Games there have been few performances that have reached world standards — or at least the standards which can be expected at Rome.

OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

Vancouver Island this fall may expect a deer hunting season that will be "equal to, if not better than, a record year," John Bandy, regional game biologist, predicts.

He told members of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association that deer counts on the island are up 20 per cent over last year.

But, he was not so cheerful about the blue grouse season which opens Sept. 3, followed by the deer opening on Sept. 17. He said counts were down on blue grouse in the southern and northern parts of Vancouver Island, but were up in the central portion where the grouse chicks are making good progress. Bandy warned that if there is more hot weather before the opening of shooting season, the grouse will be moving up to the harder-to-get-at mountain sides.

There is an air of excitement in fish and game circles now as the opening of hunting season is approaching. Safety precautions are being emphasized and with the ending of the forest closure sportsmen will be making regular trips into the woods, seeking out likely spots to hunt on opening day.

This year fish and game club members in British Columbia will be competing for a special Big Game Head Trophy, to be offered for competition by the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs. The contest will be run according to Boon and Crockett scoring, which will mean all game heads, be they coast deer, elk, moose or goats will have an equal chance of winning.

With safety the keynote of Monday's meeting, president Cliff Bandy advised fish and game members that recent color tests have confirmed fluorescent blaze orange is the safest color to wear while hunting in the woods and that fluorescent neon red is the next safest.

Ordinary red and yellow are at the bottom of the safety color list and ordinary yellow is considered dangerous in deer hunting season, because tests showed yellow can be mistaken for the white tail of a deer.

Bandy pointed out that hunting accidents, per participant, ranks only 17th, in comparison with other sports and is considered a comparatively safe sport.

"But it is our aim to make it safer," he said.

He gave out these safety tips:

1. Identify your target and shoot clean.
2. Liquor and guns don't mix.
3. Condition yourself and your dog, for the strenuous hunting season.
4. Wear comfortable clothing. Try on your hunting boots before you go hunting.
5. Wear fluorescent blaze orange or fluorescent neon red on your head and back.
6. When possible hunt with a partner, or let someone know in what area you are hunting. Many hours of searching are wasted when whereabouts of a missing hunter is not known.
7. Try out your gun before the hunting season opens. The fish and game club will hold a safety shoot Sunday at Hea's Range.

Game Warden Jack Lenfesty warned members to go at their shooting identification with an attitude of: "I think it is a man, until you are sure it is a deer, and that way avoid the heartache and suffering that follows a hunting accident."

He said 90 per cent of hunting accidents could be avoided by a little more care, a little more thought, a little less hurry.

He gave reasons for some recent accidents.

One man was clubbing a wounded bird with the stock of his gun when the gun fired. Another picked his gun up by the barrel and it fired. Another blew off his finger when the gun accidentally discharged while he had his finger in the muzzle.

"Treat every gun as if it were loaded," Lenfesty advised. "Watch for obstructions in the barrel . . . break the gun and look through the barrel . . . It doesn't take a minute," he said.

Laziness is one cause of hunting accidents which is often overlooked, Lenfesty said. He advised sportsmen not to shoot at flat surfaces with a rifle. "Four out of 10 shots fired over a lake ricochet," he said. "And you have no idea who else may be using the outdoors . . . Someone might be riding by on horseback."

Lenfesty said "accidental shootings are really a disease. We must do all we can to remind people to check each other regarding safety precautions . . . It may save a life."

In many cases the performances have been judged in relation to the Olympic qualifying standard and not to world records. On occasion a British athlete has turned in a notable performance but consistency has been lacking and the old hands — such as Derek Ibbotson, Brian Hewson, and Mike Rawson — have not had a good summer.

One exception has been Gordon Pirie, one of Britain's best hopes for an Olympic medal. Pirie won the recent amateur athletic association's six-mile championship in 28 minutes, 9.6 seconds — his best-ever time for that distance.

Earlier this summer he ran the 3,000 metres in seven minutes, 57.2 seconds, which was close to his own world record, and the 1,500 metres in three minutes, 44.1 seconds — his second-fastest time for the metric mile.

BRIGHT HOPE
Another bright hope has been the occasional flashes of Peter Radford in the sprints. Radford was clocked by two watches in the 100 yards in world record-equaling 9.3 seconds although it was officially listed as 9.4. On the same day he ran the 220 yards in 20.5 seconds, a world record time although it was not submitted for recognition because of weather conditions.

But Radford has been far from consistent and in recent meets has been beaten several times by D. H. Jones and Dave Segal, who has returned from the United States in unimpressive form.

Dave Wright has raised some hopes with a couple of commendable clockings but in the recent AAA championships in which new records were established in nine of the 19 events he could finish no better than fourth.

TAILS OFF
Tom Farrell, the British quarter-mile hurdles champion, also came into prominence when he recorded a time of one minute, 48.3 seconds in the 800 metres — the third fastest clocking in the third fastest clocking in the world this summer. But again Farrell appears to have tailed off and with less than two months before Rome his loss of form is worrying British track officials.

"One British hopeful is M. Wiggs, a protégé of Pirie, who came second to Tabori, the Hungarian now running for the United States, in the AAA mile classic. Tabori won in four minutes, one second with Wiggs a strong second as all eight finalists beat Dr. Roger Bannister's national record made seven years ago.

Besides Pirie, there are two other certainties for Rome — Stan Vickers and Arthur Rowe. Vickers, who seems certain to gain prominence in the 20-kilometre walk, broke a 44-year-old British record by nine seconds when he won the AAA two-mile walk in 13 minutes, 2.4 seconds.

BARRIER DOWN
Rowe is supreme in the weight events and has broken the no-longer elusive 60-foot barrier on a number of occasions.

The Imperial Cricket Conference has passed a resolution to play under a new experimental definition of the throw, that bowling delivery which has touched off controversy in every cricketing country.

It defines throwing as: " . . . If in the opinion of either umpire the bowling arm having been bent at the elbow (whether the wrist be backward of the elbow or not) is suddenly straightened immediately prior to the instant of delivery."

BOWLING TRAP?
This is the latest attempt to clear up the controversy which broke into full rage during South Africa's test tour of England and sidelined Geoff Griffin. And it comes at a time when the Australians are accusing England of laying a bowling "trap" for their tour next summer.

One prominent cricket writer has already suggested that the Australians cancel the tour in the best interests of cricket but the proposal has naturally been rejected — not, however, without some comment. The Australians are still planning to include Ian Meckiff, their suspect bowler in their 1961 tour party on the assumption that if he can pass Australian standards he should be able to get the approval of English umpires. It will be interesting to see how well he passes the test in England and, if he doesn't, how serious a rift it causes in international cricket relations.

Griffin, meanwhile, is not taking his "ban" lying down. The South African has been working in the nets at Lord's by using an aluminum splint to keep his bowling elbow straight.

Hyndman Medalist In Canadian Golf

OTTAWA — Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia, runner-up for the British amateur golf championship last year and a veteran of United States Walker and Americas Cups golf teams, Tuesday won medal honors in the 36-hole qualifying test in the Canadian amateur championship.

The 44-year-old Hyndman, who shot a three-under-par 70 in Monday's first 18 holes, matched par yesterday to beat out Juan Estrada, youthful Mexican champion, by one stroke. Hyndman became medalist by sinking a tricky, 10-foot downhill putt on the last green for a par four.

Only other player to equal or better par for the 36 holes was Bob Wylie, Calgary expert who is reigning Alberta amateur champion. He added a 75 yesterday to his opening 71 for even par of 146. Wylie was even with Hyndman after 27 holes but faded on the back nine with a 38.

PLAYOFF NEEDED
Sixty-one players qualified with scores of 155 or better and the championship round was filled in an eight-way playoff for the last three spots among golfers who finished at 156.

Eight United States golfers and six from Mexico were among the qualifiers, who start match play today. Ontario is represented by 20 entrants, Quebec by 10, Manitoba by five, Alberta by four, British Columbia by four, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia by two each.

Ron Willey, Pacific Northwest Golf Association champion from Vancouver led B.C. qualifiers with 75-73 — 148, which tied him for fifth place among qualifiers.

Defending champion John Johnston and youthful Joe Jeroski of Vancouver were other B.C. Willingdon Cup players to qualify, both with 152. Laurie Kerr of Victoria, 1960 B.C. amateur champion, failed to make it, following his disastrous opening 82 with a 76, but Bill Wakeham of Victoria gave B.C. another chance with two steady 75s which qualified him without trouble.

Two rounds will be played today and Thursday with Friday's semi-finals and Saturday's final to be played over 36 holes.

Africans Win Seventh Over County Teams

CANTERBURY (Reuters) — Africans and they were all out for 155.

Results of other matches:
The South African cricket team won its seventh match against county opposition Tuesday by defeating Kent by 160 runs.

Springbok captain Jackie McGlew declared the South African's second innings at 236 for nine wickets, setting Kent the task of scoring 316 runs in 230 minutes. Kent, however, never challenged the South

Little Boy Needs Blood

Here's Your Opportunity

Rash of Victorians who have offered to donate blood to assist a nine-year-old Kamloops boy suffering from haemophilia will be able to do so at Victoria Red Cross blood donor clinic Thursday and Friday.

Generous Victorians quickly offered to give blood after a front-page story in The Daily Colonist last Sunday reported how the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kennedy had received more than 110 pints of blood since a minor operation July 3.

"Few people realize that we don't have the facilities to take blood except at our special clinics," a Red Cross official said yesterday.

The blood clinic will be open on Thursday from 2.30 to 4.30 p.m. and Friday from 1.30 to 4.30 p.m. and both nights from 7 to 9.30 p.m.

The Red Cross is offering baby-sitting service and a television set has been donated to keep donors from missing their favorite programs.

The clinic, to be held at 1046 Fort, has a two-day goal of 500 pints.

"This is the opportunity for all those wishing to give Type B blood to the young Kennedy boy," said an official.

Wenner-Gren Socreds' Own Chosen Issue

By TERRY HAMMOND

Opposition charges of a resources give-away in provincial dealings with the Wenner-Gren interests began to loom large last night as the Socreds' own choice of a major election issue.

At an Oak Bay party rally last night, Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan became the second B.C. cabinet minister in a week to launch an impassioned defence of the Wenner-Gren deals upon a Greater Victoria campaign audience.

Mr. Kiernan's defence of the

Satellite In Sight Tonight

Clear skies over Victoria tonight will give residents a chance to see the orbiting balloon satellite Echo I at 10.29 p.m., 12.29 a.m., 2.28 a.m. and 4.24 a.m.

Officials of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here said the giant balloon would appear in the southwest about 40 degrees up from the horizon. It travels from west to east. It should be almost overhead on the second pass.

Times of the satellite's appearances should be about 10 minutes earlier on successive nights in its present orbit.

Police Capture Renegade Dog

One of two renegade dogs believed responsible for the death of more than 100 chickens on a Keating Cross Road farm during the weekend has been captured by Central Saanich police.

The animal has been turned over to the SPCA.

Sam Jones, owner of the poultry farm, drove away the two raiders with a shotgun.

New Parking Rules? No! Says Scurrah

More Work Proposed For Commissionaires

By R. O. MARRION

Proposed new parking restrictions yesterday raised the ire of Mayor Percy Scurrah.

"Why," he demanded, "do we continually have more restrictions on parking? We've been getting along—why are they necessary now?"

His heated enquiry and the resulting debate highlighted a day of wrestling with traffic and parking problems by aldermen in committee and in city council, which produced these developments:

● Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, public works chairman, promised council a report soon, probably at the next meeting, on overall traffic and parking planning.

● City engineer James Garnett indicated in works committee that this report likely will call for one-way northbound traffic on Government some time in the future, continued two-way use of Douglas, reconstruction of the Fountain Circle intersection and perhaps one-way traffic on Blanshard.

● Works committee decided to meet the police commission to discuss empowering commissionaires to deal with parking offences other than meter violations, and having them work from 10 to 6 instead of from 9 to 5.

● Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean proposed that instead of empowering commissionaires to chalk tires to catch

"meter-feeders," some sort of honor system should be introduced downtown—"I'm not very much in favor of putting on a traffic Gestapo."

● Council learned from Highways Minister Gagliardi that his department is studying the need for four lanes on the Patricia Bay Highway as far out as Sayward Road, and Ald. McLean suggested that the department's attention should be drawn to the approaching need for four lanes on the Trans-Canada Highway approach to Victoria.

● Public works committee recommended, and council approved over the opposition of Mayor Scurrah and Ald. M. H. Mooney, preparation of a by-law imposing several new restrictions on parking. These will include a ban on parking on the east side of Douglas from Superior to Simcoe except in parking bays, and a ban on parking on the west side of Quadra from Hillside to the city boundary at Tolmie.

Proposed prohibition of parking on the south side of Port from Bank to Foul Bay Road between 4.30 and 6 touched off opposition from Mayor Scurrah and Aldermen Mooney and Elmer McEwen.

DO SOMETHING

"It's terrible to have so many areas with no parking from 4.30 to 5.30 or 6," Ald. Mooney said. "Let's do something to keep people in town."

"Instead of increasing parking we're decreasing it," complained the mayor.

"Hear, hear!" said Ald. McEwen, who asserted that for lack of parking for customers, "at least five stores on our street are going to be vacant."

ONLY PROPOSED

Restrictions, Ald. Edgelow argued, were only proposed where conditions were becoming intolerable, and congestion was increasing at 10 per cent a year.

Traffic difficulties, he suggested, "will get people so annoyed they won't come to town at all."

McKvay Bound For Convention

Thirty-three B.C. Toastmaster Clubs will be represented at the annual international convention from Thursday to Saturday at Atlantic City, New Jersey, by their recently-elected governor James McKvay, owner and manager of Nu-Way Cleaners in Victoria.

Large Plug in Making

Septic Tank Owner May Meet Overflow

A large plug is being prepared for use on a Central Saanich culvert. It will be driven home in hopes it will force an erring ratepayer to have his septic tank repaired.

Overflow from the tank runs into a municipal ditch causing the errant ratepayer's neighbors to be choked-up with more than rage.

Acting on complaints the works committee approached the tank neglecter a number of times with no results.

Plugging the culvert will cause the tank overflow to run back on the ratepayer's property. The committee hope the move will prompt him to look into the problem with more enthusiasm.

Restrictions, Ald. Edgelow argued, were only proposed where conditions were becoming intolerable, and congestion was increasing at 10 per cent a year.

Traffic difficulties, he suggested, "will get people so annoyed they won't come to town at all."

Leader Beats Big Drum for CCF

CCF leader Robert Strachan just couldn't blow his own horn at the Lake Cowichan Day celebrations during the weekend but he sure was a whiz at whacking the big, bass drum. Royal Canadian Air Cadets No. 89 Squadron from Victoria first provided Mr. Strachan with a flute—which the CCF chieftain promptly used to blow a sour note. The two-day celebrations were sponsored by Lake Cowichan's United Organizations.—(W. H. Gold photo.)

'Give-Away' Given —And Given Again

SLEEPY TIME BILL: Mines

Minister Kenneth Kiernan spent an hour last night refuting opposition charges of a resources give-away in dealings with the Wenner-Gren interests then bravely prepared to face up to the usual question period at an Oak Bay Social Credit meeting.

He was hardly prepared for the very first query.

Looking somewhat stunned, he listened to fellow cabinet minister William Chant, chairman of the meeting, ask him if he would mind explaining opposition charges of a resources give-away to the Wenner-Gren interests.

In spite of cries from the audience of "He's just finished telling us all that," Mr. Kiernan briefly went over the ground again.

NOT RUNNING: Close friends of veteran member of the legislature Tom Uphill of Fernie say he is adamant that he will not stand again.

"Had my time," Mr. Uphill is quoted as saying.

The 86-year-old independent-labor member has become a B.C. political institution and it is hard to imagine a session of the legislature without Tom Uphill.

A former mayor of Fernie, he has represented his riding for 40 years.

He has been elected 11 times, sat in the legislature under seven premiers and dined with eight lieutenant-governors. The CCF party, which has never opposed Mr. Uphill, Monday night nominated a candidate in Fernie for the first time.

EAGER SUPPORTER: Victoria Social Credit campaign workers were nailing up a sign high above their headquarters at Johnson and Broad yesterday evening when a crowd of some 25 gathered to cheer them on.

One supporter was so keen to see the show get on the road that he climbed a 10-foot ladder to shake the hand of one of the banner hoisters.

NOT RUNNING: Vancouver Mayor Tom Alsbury has given up plans of running as an independent in the Sept. 12 provincial election because he feels he can accomplish more on the outside than sitting in the opposition benches.

He will speak on behalf of a few candidates of various parties who have clearly indicated their determination to press for a better deal for local government.

Provincial Election Notebook

PARTY PLATFORM: Jack Higgin, Communist candidate for Comox, feels that the most decisive issue in the current election campaign is the question of peace or war.

While it is true the Comox RCAF base had improved the standard of living in the area, he admitted, it had also made the area subject to attack and devastation.

His solution: Use the base as a port of entry for Communist Chinese imports.

BANNERS FUELED: City council yesterday decided not only to ban campaign banners Oak Bay candidates wanted to string across city streets but banners city candidates wanted to hoist as well.

Ald. M. H. Mooney failed to persuade his colleagues that "we should let our candidates do what they like to promote interest in the election, stir people up."

ODDS AND ENDS: Saanich Progressive Conservative candidate Victor Virginia has opened campaign headquarters at 3260 Douglas... Liberals are queuing up to win the nomination to contest Premier Bennett's riding of South Okanagan. Four men are after the nomination—television technician Singh Kobayashi, furniture dealer S. F. Angus, schoolteacher Joe Barre and farmer Hugh Fitzpatrick...

Oak Bay Social Crediters are holding a constituency tea at party headquarters Friday afternoon, at corner of Monterey and Oak Bay Avenue. Candidate George Murdoch and his wife will be on hand... Saanich CCF candidate Pat Thomas will speak at a public house meeting at the home of Mr. Norman Shillito, 2340 Amity Drive, today at 8 p.m.

Islanders Among Prize-Winners

Three high school graduates from Vancouver Island centres are among winners of $300 scholarships from the UBC Alumni Association. Winners are Carolyn S. McCammon, 133 Moss, Victoria; John Blenkinsop, 524 12th Avenue North, Port Alberni; Sharon Ann Rodney, RR No. 2, Campbell River.

YOUTHFEET: At least one election meeting during the campaign in Victoria will be aimed at a specific group—the younger citizens who have never voted before.

Victoria Liberal candidate Geoffrey Edgelow said last night the meeting had been decided upon after several phone calls suggesting that the younger voters weren't too sure who to support.

The Liberal bandwagon quickly ground into gear.

The meeting is to be held Aug. 31 at the Dominion Theatre. The Liberal platform will be fully explained to the younger set.

SKY'S THE LIMIT: Victoria CCF have a large sign painted on the ceiling of the Woodsworth Hall, Courtney Street.

It reads: "You have a $535,000,000 provincial debt hanging over your head."

Admiral at Helm of Winning Boat

Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes was at the tiller of the first 29-foot racer to cross the finish line in the Sailorette event in the RCN Pacific Command annual regatta held yesterday at Esquimalt.

Members on the staff of the Flag Officer, Pacific Coast, also manned the winning boat in the whaler race which drew 17 entries. Cox'n of the winning whaler was Lt. Cmdr. Fred Henshaw.

In the 14-foot dinghy sailing event the entry from the frigate HMCS New Glasgow, coxed by Lieut. G. B. Stanford, was first-home.

A total of 150 personnel of the Command took part in the two-hour regatta.

Despite poor weather, the annual event was one of the most successful ever staged here, said a naval spokesman. Only casualty of the afternoon was a dinghy overturned by a sudden gust of wind. A harbor craft, acting as guard boat, quickly righted the boat and picked up its occupants.

Presentation of regatta awards will be made at 11.30 a.m. today aboard the destroyer-escort HMCS Assiniboine.

Major trophies will go to each winning ship or establishment, while miniature awards will be presented to individual members of the winning teams.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Our son is very involved with Little League Baseball. His team is in a bad slump now and it's making the boy physically ill.

His father is largely to blame. He places such emphasis on winning that the child has come to believe there's nothing in life worth living for but to be on the winning team.

The other day our son struck out in the ninth inning with the bases loaded. On the way home his father gave him such a severe tongue-lashing the boy cried.

I spoke to his father later and he said, "Winning is what counts in this world. No one is interested in losers—or why they lost."

In the meantime, the boy is terribly unhappy, and I'm frankly to admit I can't wait till baseball season is over. May I have your thinking on this?—BENCHED MOTHER.

Dear Mother: The emphasis on winning is one symptom of the sickness of our time. The whole world loves a winner. But victory must never be so important that any and all measures to attain it are acceptable.

Competition is good because it motivates people to strive for excellence. It's also useful to learn how to accept the fact that others may be MORE excellent, but to do one's best regardless, and not go to pieces when we find ourselves outclassed. This is the REAL value of competition.

Dear Ann Landers: I met a swell guy at a dance three months ago. We've been going steady ever since and I know for certain we're in love. The trouble is, we want to get married but we aren't of age. When we asked our parents to sign for us they raised Cain and told us we were crazy.

We sent for your booklet, "Necking and Petting And How Far To Go" and have tried to follow your advice. There are an awful lot of teenagers who are having trouble controlling themselves, so please print some more advice in the paper. It's tough to be young and in love.—MARY-ANNE.

Dear Maryanne: If you think it's tough to be young and in love, let me tell you it's an awful lot tougher to be pregnant and not married.

There's a lot passing for love these days that is pure chemistry. I'm happy you sent for the booklet and I hope you'll read it again, especially the part that suggests you double and triple date, have a planned program instead of just riding around, and steer clear of lonely roads and out-of-the-way places.

Self control can spell the difference between a life of contentment and a premature, unwanted disastrous marriage.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 24 and in the service. Before I left, several women who work in the office (I'm an accountant) said they would write to me and keep me informed on what's happening in the office.

Now I'm having trouble with my wife. She says these women have no business writing me individual letters. According to her, they should write one letter together and sign it as a group. "It doesn't seem so personal that way," my wife says.

These women are all married and perfectly respectable. Is my wife right? If you say so I'll knock off the correspondence. — IN HOT WATER.

Dear In: There's safety in numbers. If just one woman wrote your wife might have a valid complaint, but six—it seems to me almost sisterly.

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How to Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Daughters of St. George, No. 238, will meet on Friday, Aug. 19, at 7.30 p.m. in the K of P Hall.

ISLAND HALL HOTEL

PARKSVILLE, V.I., B.C.

Build some reservation availability at this popular seaside resort. Island Hall Hotel located right on the beach and on Island Highway in village of Parksville is easy to reach by car, train, bus or ferry. It is hospitable, home-like, comfortable. Has excellent home-cooked meals. Rooms with or without private bath, some connecting. Entertainment for everyone, warm water bathing, fishing, games, reading, and lounging. For reservations and inquiries write Mrs. Mary Sutherland, Mrs. Ellen Allwood, or phone CHURCHILL 5-303, Parksville.

A garden party will be held this afternoon in the spacious grounds at the home of Capt. and Mrs. M. Burbridge, 2147 Sooke Road, under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary to St. John the Baptist Church at Colwood. Rev. D. A. Hatfield will open the affair at 2.30 p.m. In case of rain the affair will be held in the parish hall. Proceeds will be in aid of the building fund. Pictured, from left to right, Mrs. Burbridge, Mrs. R. Little, president of the W.A., Mrs. A. J. Proudfoot, treasurer, and Mrs. E. H. Emery, secretary.

TIPS FOR PARENTS

By HELEN R. HEWSON

Among all the doubts and questions concerning education there is one statement on which there is general agreement—more and more people need more and more education.

The Department of Labor, Ottawa, has issued a bulletin which emphasizes this need.

Technological changes in industry have increased white-collar jobs from two to four times the rate of semi-skilled or unskilled jobs.

This is an expanding trend and those who leave school early will find themselves competing for fewer jobs open to people of limited education.

As the date for school opening approaches many young people are undecided about returning to their studies.

Perhaps a summer job has given them their first real taste of freedom and independence—heady stuff. They are reluctant to go back to the discipline and restrictions of school life.

Perhaps boy has met girl. With money in his pocket he is able to give her a whirl. At school, with less money, less time for social activities, he may lose her.

Will he, or she, become another drop-out and join the ranks of the untrained worker for whom there is a dwindling demand?

This problem is becoming more acute as we enter a period when large numbers of young people born in the post-war population expansion are growing up and looking for work.

We cannot expect all of them to have the foresight, the understanding and the ability to profit from advanced education.

About 15% of them are "gifted," capable of absorbing advanced and difficult studies. About 70% are of average intelligence.

Urging, coaxing, scolding does not persuade them to stick to their studies.

This is a growing social problem and some of the answers must be found in the attitudes and practices of society.

We need greater prestige for intellectual attainments, pride and satisfaction in a job well done, a stronger feeling of self-worth for the young who are still economically dependent and a willingness to accept the advice of the Labor Department and others who are looking ahead.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin H. Smith, 141 Eberts Street, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Lynette, to Mr. Roy F. Cuzner, son of Mr. William Cuzner, 1030 St. Charles, and Mrs. Mary Cuzner, 2580 Bowker Avenue. The marriage will take place on Friday, Aug. 26, in the LDS Temple, Salt Lake City, Utah. The couple will reside in Provo, Utah, where the groom will further his studies at the Brigham Young University. (Souvenir photos.)

Fur on Fur

Mink Costs $4,500

TORONTO (CP)—Fur trim appeared on nearly all the fur garments shown at the closing session of a fall and winter press preview here.

Fur on fur is growing rather than diminishing in popularity, Toronto furrier Percy Lindzon said.

Most of the coats were full with the fullness falling from the sides rather than the back of the garment. Several high fashion models had large shawl-type collars.

Retail prices ranged from $225 for a casual French seal which is dyed rabbit processed by Chapal in France, to $4,500 for a full-length Canadian mink coat.

Sleeves were generally adjustable from full to cocktail length.

PROTECT SKIN

Air pollution is a threat to skin beauty. Every woman who does not want her pores blackened or want her child to grow up with a problem skin should take intelligent steps to look after their skin.

You can arm yourself with deep cleansers and never go to bed without removing every trace of soot from pores. Never go out in the smoke-laden air without wearing a make-up foundations, as valuable for skin protection as it is for insuring a soignée look.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; get more pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back slurring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blot disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson To Live at Cobble Hill

Duncan United Church was decorated with pink asters and white gladiolus for the wedding of Jacqueline Helen, daughter of John McCall, Bamerton, B.C., and Mr. Donald John Robertson, son of Mrs. Robertson, Cobble Hill, B.C., and the late Mr. Thomas Robertson.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess style gown of peau de soie with lace bodice and lace applique on the skirt.

A sequin trimmed tiara held her short veil and red and white roses formed her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. P. McCall was matron of honor for her sister-in-law and wore a blue taffeta dress with lace cummerbund. Bridesmaids, Gerry Whittaker and Moira Evans wore dresses of blue lace over taffeta with taffeta cummerbunds. All attendants had matching floral hats and carried bouquets of pink carnations and rosebuds. The little flower girl, Helen Cox, wore a pink dress and carried a blue basket of flowers.

Mr. Kenneth Kerone was best man and Mr. Gary Townsend and Mr. Patrick McCall, brother of the bride, acted as ushers.

Mrs. E. Carter was organist and Miss Margaret Cleough was soloist.

At a reception held at the Maple Inn, Mrs. S. Zellinsky proposed the toast.

After a week's honeymoon in Seattle the newlyweds will make their home at Cobble Hill.

For travelling the bride donned a champagne toned suit, the short fitted jacket styled with Queen Anne collar. Her hat was beige and other accessories were in moss green suede. A brown orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

Steadman-Thompson

In St. John's Anglican Church in early August, Canon George Biddle officiated at the wedding of Sylvia Anne Thompson, of Duncan, B.C., and William Arthur Steadman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Steadman of Warren, Mich.

The bride wore a full-length white silk organza gown with aurora borealis sequin trim. Finger-tip veil of nylon tulle was held with a rhinestone crown. Her bouquet was red roses, white carnations and stephanotis.

Bridesmatron Mrs. Vivian Gibson wore a dress of pink silk organza with pink veiled hat. As bridesmaid, Miss Pat Knapp, Santa Barbara, Calif., was in blue silk organza, with blue veiled hat. Both carried pink and white carnations. Flower girl, Coleen Knapp wore a dainty yellow nylon dress and yellow hat, and carried a basket of yellow and white carnations.

Donald Gibson was best man and Dave McCormack was usher. Reception was held in Old England Inn where Arthur Knapp, who came from Santa Barbara for the wedding, proposed the toast.

After spending a week in Victoria the couple left by car on a honeymoon trip to Warren, Mich., where they will make their future home. The bride travelled in a turquoise cashmere suit, with white feather hat and white accessories.

MRS. DONALD GAREN

Scholarship Winner Drama Enthusiast

An enthusiastic teacher of Child Drama, Mrs. Donald Garen of Red Deer, Alta., is a visitor in Victoria. She is here to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claud Chapman, 916 Byng Street, until Friday when she will return to her home—all set to start drama classes for children.

Mrs. Garen has just completed a seven weeks' course in child drama at University of British Columbia Summer School of the Arts. She took the course under a scholarship awarded to her by the Alberta Cultural Activities Branch.

DRAMA AGAIN

Two years ago Mrs. Garen was awarded a scholarship to the Banff School of Fine Arts where she completed her senior studies in drama.

Extra activities at the university this summer included

Fulford Visitors

FULFORD, B.C.—Mrs. B. East is spending a few days in Mission, B.C.

Mrs. O. McClaron is in Victoria visiting her husband at the Veterans' Hospital.

Visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Smith, Isabella Point Road, are Susanne and Craig Ruddick, of Haney, B.C. The children will return home with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Ruddick, who are expected to visit the Smiths shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Archer of Vancouver left Salt Spring Island after spending a few days visiting Mrs. Archer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Smith at Fulford. The Archers were accompanied by their two sons, Frank and Douglas.

taking part in the Tennessee Williams play, "Camino Real," directed by Robert Gill of the University of Toronto.

Mrs. Garen was one of two out of 31 in the summer school class who were not teachers gaining credits. Extremely keen on the work herself she was pleased to note that several of the teachers who were rather cool toward the course became ardent supporters before the finish.

SELF EXPRESSION

The child drama classes aim to teach complete self expression without licence. Respect for surroundings and teaching the child to keep occupied are also main parts of the program.

Both the extrovert and shy child are taught to work in a group by the drama method. Stories are never told, they are acted and each child takes a part. Movement to music is also a main part of these classes which are comparatively new in Canada.

PETER SLADE

Two years ago, Mr. Brian Way who edited Peter Slade's book, "Child Drama," came from England on a tour of Canada. He addressed meetings in major Canadian cities advocating the starting of drama classes for children.

Mrs. Garen heard Mr. Way speak and was inspired to start on her own. Last year there were 160 pupils enrolled in her classes. These classes were experimental, operated under the Red Deer Recreation Commission.

This September after her summer course Mrs. Garen is all set to put her advanced knowledge to work.

Back in Red Deer, her husband and two daughters, Donna, aged 12 and Sally, five and a half, are eagerly awaiting her return.

WHAT'S COOKING

By LOUISE MOORE

One of my neighbors said to me the other day "why not give us some good cookie recipes now that iced drinks are the order of the day"—and what goes better with them than those tasty little morsels.

HOOZIE PEANUT BARS

There is a delicious chewiness to these nut squares and they are wonderful for a party.

Sift together 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 tsp. soda, ½ tsp. salt. Cream together ½ cup butter or shortening and gradually beat in ½ cup granulated sugar, ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Blend in 2 egg yolks and 1 tsp. vanilla, then stir in the dry ingredients gradually to form a crumb mixture.

ADD CHOCOLATE

Press into greased 13x9x2-inch pans. Sprinkle over the dough 1 cup (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces and ½ cup salted peanuts, chopped. Pat in gently.

Beat 2 egg whites until light and slight mounds form. Gradually add 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar—that isn't lumpy, please. Beat until stiff. When straight peaks form spread over chocolate pieces. Sprinkle with ½ cup chopped salted peanuts and press into meringue slightly.

AT 325 F.

Bake in moderate oven, 325F., for 40 to 45 minutes or until golden and done. While warm, cut into squares—scrummy.

For hot weather ease I don't think you can beat the ice box cookies that you can slice when the spirit moves you and you are in need of fresh cookies.

BROWN SUGAR COOKIES

Cream 1 cup shortening—I like butter best for these—and gradually beat in 2 cups light brown sugar and beat until fluffy. Add 1 tsp. vanilla and 2 eggs and beat thoroughly until light and fluffy.

Sift together 3 cups sifted enriched pastry flour, 1 tsp. soda, 1 tsp. cream of tartar and ¼ tsp. salt. Sift once again and add dry ingredients to first mixture and mix until well blended. A little more flour may be needed but do not add too much or cookies will be tough.

CHILL

Chill dough about 20 minutes then form into 2½-inch rolls, wrapping them in waxed paper. Refrigerate until needed.

When ready to bake, slice thinly, ¼-inch thick, and bake on greased cookie sheet, placing cookies 1 inch apart and bake in moderate oven (375F.) until a delicate golden color—about 8-10 minutes.

Chopped walnuts may be added or pecans are especially nice in these cookies while chopped red-glazed cherries make an attractive addition too. Both nuts and fruits may be added.

Fashion Decrees Change in Heads

By NORA MARTIN

PARIS (TNS)—Now that the smoke has cleared away after the explosion of the Paris "fashion-bombs," here is what really counts style-wise and what may affect your autumn wardrobe and your "new look" for winter.

The most drastic change actually concerns the head. We have noticed that even those smart and simple suits and dresses which show no drastic style changes look very different on the model-girls with their short shingle hair-dos and their pale make-up and dark-rimmed eyes. If you want the 1961 look, have a haircut (although some of the smart French women will prefer to keep their hair longer and get the look with the clothes).

The necklines on your new suits and dresses should be collarless and worn with a coat collared in fur to muffle you up to the chin. The shaggier the fur the better on a long-torso line which we don't recommend except for monkey fur are the latest. Fox, mink and sable will also do nicely.

With "fashions on the loose" again, sweater-girls won't make the best-dressed list this year. Men-styled shirts are out, too. Jumper tops and loose over-blouses will replace the sweaters and shirts.

Waistlines in the new Paris fashions are obvious only when they are slipping. At Dior the new look is based on a long-torso line which we don't recommend except for monkey fur are the latest. Fox, mink and sable will also do nicely.

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

One of the newer weapons used by some expert players is the so-called "responsive" double. It is used in such situations as today's hand, where, after partner has doubled the opening bid for a takeout, the opener's partner butts in with a pre-emptive raise. In such circumstances, the doubler's partner seldom wants to double for penalties, so, by using a double as a "responsive" he tells partner that he has a fair support hand for any suit other than the one bid by the opponents.

Today's deal was played in the World Bridge Olympiad by the team which is defending its Masters Knockout Team Championship in Los Angeles. Their opponents were one of Sweden's two strong teams. Rubin's double was "responsive" to Jacoby's earlier takeout double.

South was the first trick with the jack of hearts when East let his partner's eight right. With an apparent loser in both spades and diamonds, South had to limit his trump loss to a single trick in order to make his contract. With the ace of clubs marked in East's hand, he had to make his first trump lead from dummy. Therefore he led to dummy's ace of spades and played a small club.

If East had played his partner for a singleton heart, he could have set the hand by jumping in with the trump ace, giving partner a heart ruff and then, after getting back with the king of spades, leading a third round of hearts for West to trump. But East ducked the trick and South's queen won. Now came the "obligatory" finesse. On the club return, there was no point in playing anything but a small one from dummy since East was marked with the ace. Consequently East's ace of clubs fell on air.

Now a heart return would do no good. South would let West ruff a low one and later would get rid of his losing diamond on dummy's king of hearts. So East led his singleton diamond. South won, drew West's last trump and, surrendered a diamond and a spade in the end exactly making his contract. At the other table, Sweden played three no trump and went down one trick.

Charges Mud-Slinging CCF Leader Unopposed In Cowichan

DUNCAN — Robert Strachan was unanimously nominated the Cowichan-Newcastle riding's CCF candidate in the next election during the first two minutes of a meeting here last night, and then he spent two hours promising a vigorous but clean campaign before a jubilant crowd of nearly 200.

In his speech, marking the start of the CCF campaign in the province, he charged that the Social Credit Party has already started a campaign of mud-slinging "of the worst kind."

DIRECT CAMPAIGN

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi and Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston have predicted a "dirty campaign," Mr. Strachan said, and added: "If they say it, they must intend to make it so, I'm sorry indeed that the Social Credit has started it."

He charged that a Social Credit member said he was in the employ of a foreign power to cause strife between labor and management.

WORST TYPE

And at Alberni, CCF candidate John Squire—a person with "outstanding integrity"—has been termed a Bolshevik, which he claimed was the worst type of mud-slinging.

The CCF party will "stick to its principles" because it "wouldn't stoop to these things."

Later in his speech Mr. Strachan charged that the B.C. Federation of Trade and Industry organization and its "dirty, rotten practices" is only a front organization for the Social Credit party.

Touring Students Due Home Saturday

Due to arrive in Victoria Saturday are the 166 Victoria students who left for a touring trip of Europe on July 1.

The students saved their money and paid their own way across under reduced student rates. The group arrived in Montreal by air yesterday for a visit to Ottawa before catching a CNE train on last lap of journey home.

Second Firehall Show Opens Run Tonight

The Intimate Stage of Victoria opens its second performance of the season this evening at 8.15 at the old firehall on Yates Street.

Two plays are to be presented. Tony Nicholson plays the only role in "Kripp's Last Tape," and John Gilliland and Horace Mayea appear in "The Dock Brief."

The show continues nightly until including Saturday.

Youngsters Continue Good Work

By BERT BINNY
Young Victoria musicians continue their excellent record in Toronto Conservatory Examinations this year.

The latest results show them to have won four Frederick Harris scholarships and no fewer than 10 silver medals awarded for the highest mark obtained in B.C. in the class concerned.

Violinist, Barbara-Anne Court, 3207 Browning Street, appears for the second year in succession as a double winner of silver medals in addition to winning a scholarship. Two other violinists, Vivienne Abbott and Frank Reynolds, and one pianist, Karen Dickson, won both a medal and a scholarship.

Full results are as follows:
Scholarships—Piano: Grades 8 and 10; Karen Dickson; violin: Grades 7 and 8; Barbara-Anne Court; Grades 8 and 9; Vivienne Abbott; Grade 1, Frank Reynolds.
Silver medals—Piano: Grades 10, Karen Dickson and Sidney Bulman-Fleming; Grade 8, Philip Adamson; Violin: Grades 7 and 8, Barbara-Anne Court; Grade 9, Vivienne Abbott; Grade 1, Frank Reynolds; Singing: Grade 2, Elmer Graham; Organ: Grade 2, Paul McIvor; Speech Arts: Grade 4, Bonnie Jean Rutherford.

Car Crashes Into Rock

DUNCAN—A car driven by Majorie Lyon, 3835 Wilkinson Road, Victoria, Sunday night crashed into a high, steep rock outcropping that separates the highway and the Malahat Lookout at the top of Bamerton Hill.

Police said she was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital with facial injuries and a broken nose. She was alone and proceeding north at the time.

The British Columbia Telephone Company hereby gives notice that it has under Section 7 of the said Act, deposited with the Minister of Public Works at Ottawa, and in the office of the District Registrar of the Land Registry District of Victoria at Victoria, British Columbia, a description of the site and plans of telephone substation cable laid on the bed of Sooke Harbour from Section 134 to Section 1, Sooke District.

And take notice that after the expiration of one month from the date of publication of this notice the British Columbia Telephone Company will under Section 7 of the said Act apply to the Minister of Public Works for approval of the said site and plans.

Dated this 17th day of August, 1960.
BRITISH COLUMBIA TELEPHONE COMPANY.

To Retire

Informal notice has been given by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane of Victoria that he expects to retire from the B.C. Supreme Court bench in September. He was appointed to that court July 4, 1943.

Still in Shipyard

The 60-passenger hydrofoil ferry Flying Fish, scheduled to ply the Victoria-Bellingham route later this month, was still in a Portland shipyard last night and is not expected to take to the water until Thursday.

Repairs Hold Back Hydrofoil Ferry

Backers of the plan to run an international 40-knot ferry service last week expected the craft to be in Bellingham by yesterday and undergoing sea trials before making its first trip to Victoria on Friday.

But Bellingham Mayor John Westford told the Colonist last night that repairs to the Italian-designed hydrofoil had taken longer than usual in a Portland shipyard.

The craft was taken to the yard for uncrating and fitting and was damaged there when it dropped on its keel from a crane.

'Put People First' CCF Election Slogan

Big issues in the Sept. 12 provincial election campaign are those which have a concrete, direct and indirect effect upon human beings, Saanich CCF candidate Pat Thomas said at a meeting in Marigold Hall last night.

These were summed up in the CCF slogan, "Put people first," he added.

"We are presenting not vague 'billion-dollar pipe dreams' of some imaginary northern railway or private monopoly empires in the north but sound, sensible down-to-earth policies to improve physical and cultural life for the people," said Mr. Thomas.

On Sept. 12, he said, the people will vote on two main immediate issues:

- Do they want such policies as car insurance at cost, public power (including the end of the B.C. Electric "domination of B.C."), a full medical care plan and a planned program of reducing the local share of school taxes?
- What kind of local representative do they want to represent Saanich in the legislature? This they must decide by listening to all the candidates and judging their capabilities.

Hope of World Rests On 'Thin White Line'

By IAN STREET

The hope of the world rests with "the thin white line"—spiritual groups throughout the world who are working for the good of mankind, an Englishman who claims to have met and talked with people from outer space said here last night.

George King, a former London taxi driver, told a packed house in the CCF hall on Courtney Street his mission is to spread the word from outer space.

He told the audience a space ship from Mars will orbit around the earth for a month starting at midnight.

Sept. 30 beaming energy to the "decent-minded, right-thinking people" of the world. Those who get this cosmic energy boost will gain 3,000 times their present capacity for doing good, King claimed.

"Phenomena hunters won't be able to see the space vehicle as it orbits around the earth and our radar installations won't pick up its ghost on their oscilloscopes," he said.

"There's a reason for this: nothing must be allowed to interfere with the very delicate power manipulations . . . I won't go into the technical side of this question, that would be a lecture in itself."

King said spiritual groups in tune with the cosmic plan exist throughout the world. He added: "Tremendous gains have been made by a spiritual group in the Siberian salt mines."

"The members of this Siberian group have come into contact with a certain mineral—I won't say what—that makes them younger and they don't need to eat. But they have to eat in front of their guards.

"Then they go around the back and put a finger down their throat to get rid of it."

King, 41-year-old editor of the Cosmic Voice, is making a lecture tour of North America.

Colwood Picnic Cancelled

A picnic planned for Sunday at 2 p.m. to acquaint the public with plans of the B.C. Agricultural Association for a new fair grounds at Colwood has been cancelled.

This was done, Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood explained last night, because the picnic would have conflicted with the annual Laxton Fair, and the society does not wish to interfere with any such event.

Sept. 30 beaming energy to the "decent-minded, right-thinking people" of the world. Those who get this cosmic energy boost will gain 3,000 times their present capacity for doing good, King claimed.

"Phenomena hunters won't be able to see the space vehicle as it orbits around the earth and our radar installations won't pick up its ghost on their oscilloscopes," he said.

"There's a reason for this: nothing must be allowed to interfere with the very delicate power manipulations . . . I won't go into the technical side of this question, that would be a lecture in itself."

King said spiritual groups in tune with the cosmic plan exist throughout the world. He added: "Tremendous gains have been made by a spiritual group in the Siberian salt mines."

"The members of this Siberian group have come into contact with a certain mineral—I won't say what—that makes them younger and they don't need to eat. But they have to eat in front of their guards.

"Then they go around the back and put a finger down their throat to get rid of it."

King, 41-year-old editor of the Cosmic Voice, is making a lecture tour of North America.

Garden Notes
Problem of Pruning
By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS
"Dear Mr. Chesnut: I have a rose bush in my garden, but I do not know its name. Will you please tell me how and when to prune it?"
This question keeps popping up in my mail all through the growing season. It isn't surprising that novice gardeners don't know the names of their roses, considering the enormous number of varieties and types we have nowadays. I doubt very much if I could identify more than a dozen or so of the commoner kinds myself.
The safest method, when you don't know the variety or type of rose, is to cut back some or all of the wood which has borne flowers this season. If you cut your roses for the house, this will have been done automatically, if the flowers have been allowed to wither on the plant, cut just as if you were taking it for a vase, with a good long stem and making your cut immediately above an outward-facing growth bud.
This should really be done during or immediately after the flowering period. There is no closed season for taking out dead or unhealthy growth or thin, spindly shoots which will never amount to anything, and these can come out any time. The main pruning is left until March.
Speaking of roses, Her Majesty the Queen has graciously accepted a gift of 100 bushes of the hybrid tea variety Silver Lining, presented by the raiser, Alex. Dickson & Sons of Northern Ireland. These are to be planted this fall in the gardens of Buckingham Palace to commemorate the birth of Prince Andrew.
Silver Lining is a lovely thing, with exquisitely formed blooms in pale pink and making an exceptionally vigorous bush. Moreover, it is one of the very few roses to win an award on the basis of scent alone, receiving the Clay Cup in 1957 for the most fragrant rose of the year.
A lot of folks don't seem to be having much success with everlasting flowers, which are in great demand for floral arrangements in winter. Closed flowers, petals dropping off and mouldy flower heads are the principal complaints.
Two things are essential in preparing these flowers for decorative material: one is to cut the blooms before they have opened out fully and to strip off all the foliage and the other is care in drying them off. Cool and airy conditions, in shade, are needed for this drying, and I think it is best to carry out the process in two stages.
First, spread them out on sheets of newspaper placed on a table or shelf in a cool but dry and well-ventilated room. No flower or stem should touch another during this stage. After three days, the surface moisture should have evaporated and the flowers may be bunched in small bunches and hung upside down to complete their drying.
Don't forget that flower heads of the garden hydrangeas make good dried material for winter arrangements. Just leave them on the plant, keeping them shaded and well supplied with moisture at the roots. The flowers will gradually turn color, becoming green with rosy purple tints, and may be cut around the middle of October. Take a good length of stem, strip off all the leaves and stand them in an empty vase in a cool, dry room until the "petals"—actually bracts—are dry and papery.

Parliamentary Profiles
They All Like B.C.'s Green
By B. T. RICHARDSON
(Third of a series)
Most dramatic revision of Parliament's judgment of one of its members has centred upon Howard Green, who served 22 years in opposition before becoming a cabinet minister. That period was the entire lifetime of the Liberal administration that toppled in 1957.
Parliament tends to view opposition members as through the wrong end of the telescope. The range moves up sharply when a man shifts to the cabinet desks.
The position of foreign secretary is a special one, both in the executive roll of the cabinet and in the House of Commons. Mr. Green enjoyed long, intimate collaboration as seat mate and ally in the political wars waged across the House floor of his chief the present prime minister.
Mr. Green won his seat first in 1935, year of the Conservative debacle. No one in the present House exceeds his record for winning elections, nor for fighting against heavy odds.
Today Howard Green presents the image of the optimistic man who believes in the goodness of human nature and works with affable intensity at the task of keeping friends for Canada around the world. He acts on the assumption that people can be influenced to work for peace and compromise, not war.
His undoubted authority in the House stems from an obvious integrity, which he displayed in running public works, and from his seasoned, parliamentary skill.
Never a storm centre around which a faction might form, Mr. Green is universally liked and widely admired. The spare, Lincolnesque, ex-backbencher has blossomed into a shrewd, unflinching negotiator of intricate international problems. News writers no longer refer to him as "frail looking."
He served in the trenches in 1917, an experience that conditioned his thinking, but he has been prepared to revise his ideas through concentrated study of foreign policy.
An ex-editor of Varsity, the Toronto University paper (in 1915, that is, just before enlisting), Howard Green went into law and then politics with the support of a family tradition of public life. An uncle was a B.C. cabinet minister, an Ottawa member and a senator. His chief quality that difficulty" would be the conduct of external affairs.

Mr. Green's famous repudiation, at the time of Suez, of the role of "cherry boy of the U.S." for Canada, still stands. Foreign policy is undergoing revision in many key aspects.
He made disarmament a special aim. He has revised the attitude to Latin America. His interest in the Pacific has oriented policy. He has been a warm defender of the United States.
In his blunt repugnance for patronage, Mr. Green embodies an inner feature of the Diefenbaker government. He has begun the long overdue overhaul of departmental machinery that had fallen into evil conditions. Around the world, one hears how he has won the hearts of his departmental staffs in foreign missions.
Mr. Green is an effective part of the government team, without pretensions of a prima donna. He gave up trying for the top position in his party, after his name was proposed and rejected in 1942.
No longer does one hear in Ottawa the refrain of a year or two ago, that the "era of great foreign ministers" somehow ended for Canada when the voters decided to change the government.
One measure of the change is Mr. Green's definition of Canada's position—no longer merely an interpreter or honest broker but an active participant in world affairs.

Trial Starts Today
'Liberal' Red Law To Save Powers?
MOSCOW (UPI)—U-2 pilot Francis Powers, at his espionage trial starting today will have the benefit of Soviet criminal legislation that has been liberalized in recent years.
The new liberal legal system gives Powers the right of counsel and access to evidence collected by the prosecution.
The military collegium of the Supreme Court, which will try Powers, is the highest military tribunal in the Soviet Union.
The death sentence once was mandatory upon conviction of espionage. But the present criminal code provides the court with an option of handing out a minimum sentence of seven to 15 years imprisonment.
Unlike U.S. courts, there is no formal presumption of innocence in the Soviet legal system. There is also no judicial appeal from the sentence, but the defendant may ask the Soviet parliament for clemency.
The military collegium consists of a justice and two assessors, both military men though not lawyers.
The trial will open with the reading of the 4,000-word indictment. Powers must then enter a formal plea. He has the right to withdraw his plea of guilty or to refuse to testify. But it appears unlikely he will do either.
Representation by a U.S. lawyer was refused. If Powers enters a formal plea of guilty, Soviet attorney-general Roman Rudenko must still continue the case and establish the guilt.
After he enters his plea, Powers will answer questions from the prosecutor and the judge. He may plead extenuating circumstances or that the court may simply take notice of them. The Soviet penal code lists "open-hearted admission of guilt" among mitigating circumstances.
According to the indictment, Soviet authorities consider Powers a military flyer under army orders with apparently no choice of carrying out any assigned mission.
This, plus the fact Powers confessed and proved co-operative, may prove important factors in avoiding the death sentence.

Sheilah Graham in London
Trouble in Simone's House
LONDON (NANA)—Seems I was wrong about Simone Signoret and Yves Montand. There is trouble in the marriage, in fact the reason for Simone's present trip to Hollywood is that Montand wants to patch up their very serious misunderstanding.
Director of this blockbuster of a cast, Robert Mulligan, breaks his journey in London to discuss another TV special with Sir Laurence Olivier. And with S. Lee Fogostin to write the show, this will re-unite the trio of Emmy winner special, "The Moon and Sixpence."
Judy Garland, who hasn't made a movie since "A Star Is Born" in 1955, hopes to star in the movie version of her life, "The Judy Garland Story," which will be published as a book. Daughter Liza would play Judy as a child actress, with Judy taking over as an adult. She will diet for the role, but not too strenuously, I hope.
Something I didn't know until I came to London—Rex Harrison first learned of Kay Kendall's fatal leukemia when she took her blood test for their marriage. He decided with the doctor to withhold the information from Kay.
MGM wants to co-star Laurence Harvey and Ava Gardner in the film version of "Sweet Bird of Youth." I believe Ava still owes Metro some movies, so the casting could happen.

Food Bank Nearer

OTTAWA (CP)—Prospects of organizing an international food bank among the major North American producers and West European consumers are getting brighter, an informed source said Tuesday.

The food bank idea was promoted by Prime Minister Diefenbaker while in opposition, and put before NATO in December, 1957. But largely because of U.S. reluctance to become involved, the plan didn't get off the ground.

Two factors have contributed to the new brighter prospects. One is the success of Canadian negotiations with the United Kingdom and with Norway to arrange stockpiles of Canadian wheat flour there. Other West European countries want similar arrangements.

The other new development is reportedly a result of the U.S. election campaign. Vice-President Nixon has been a proponent of the food bank, but President Eisenhower reluctant. The president is now coming around to its support, to help Mr. Nixon.

Modern naval frigates, smaller than destroyers, are used for escort service and patrol duty.

French-Canadians Sought for Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—The United Nations hopes to attract French-Canadian experts to help restore the shattered Congolese economy and administration. Sture Linner, chief of UN civilian operations here, said Tuesday.

Canada's French-speaking community is "very much in our minds" as a source of technical assistance of all types, the Swedish official told a press conference. French is widely spoken in this former Belgian colony.

Linner said the UN also is seeking help from smaller French-speaking countries such as Haiti, Morocco and Tunisia. He said thousands of experts would be needed in a variety of fields.

Bodies Recovered From Muddy Lake

VANCOUVER (CP)—The bodies of four men were recovered late Tuesday from the muddy, boulder-strewn lake in the British Columbia interior where they met their death.

Pacific Western Airlines pilot Capt. A. J. Moul and a skindiver found the bodies at a spot in Lorna Lake, 120 miles northeast of here, where a PWA Beaver float plane apparently crashed on takeoff Monday.

Slide Tomb Isolated By Weather

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bad weather over Mount Waddington, 170 miles northwest of here, has forced postponement of a planned aerial search of the 13,000-foot peak where four climbers are believed to have been killed July 30 by an avalanche.

RCMP will make a check of the mountain face from the air to see if any of the four might have escaped.

Capt. Moul was expected to take off from the lake either Tuesday night or today, depending on flying conditions, to take the bodies to Kamloops.

Pilot of the plane was veteran James Butler Marshall, 46, of Kamloops.

The names of the others, prospectors for Canadian Petroleum Exploration Company of Calgary, were not released pending notification of next of kin.

The plane crashed Monday but PWA did not release news of it until Tuesday morning.

It said Marshall had flown the men into the lake Monday and had cleared with the Kamloops PWA office in the early afternoon.

A plane was sent over the lake Monday night and it reported the crash.

Study Started

First Step Taken For Moon Lab

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—The first step toward establishing an international laboratory on the moon were taken Tuesday by the International Academy of Astronautics.

Dr. Theodore Von Karman of Pasadena, Calif., director of the academy, said a committee has been formed to work on the moon laboratory project.

He added that it was unlikely that the actual laboratory can be established before 15 to 25 years from now.

However, the committee will tackle such problems as how to build the laboratory and how to make it habitable for man.

Russia's space scientist, Prof. Leonid Sedov, told 700 delegates from 33 countries he hopes the world's research workers can co-operate because future rocket projects would be too costly for any one nation.

Sedov added that Russia plans more rockets to the moon and to Mars and Venus.

Already 1960 is shaping up as a major year for polio. Paralytic cases—the ones of which official records are kept—total 103. There have been nine deaths in the province.

Anti-polio shots will hold the total down. They're free; they have no other after-effect; their administration is simple. If you haven't had, or completed, your polio shots, the medical authorities hope you'll see them today.

Green at UN

Reopen Talks On Arms Cut Canada Urges

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada Tuesday demanded new negotiations on disarmament and the United States offered to stop making fissionable material for nuclear weapons if the Soviet Union would do the same.

The Soviet response was cool—without a ban on weapons, there would be no point in ending the production of nuclear materials, said Russia's deputy foreign minister, Vasily Kuznetsov.

BACKED DOWN

These views were put forward at a meeting of the UN disarmament commission on which all 52 members of the United Nations are represented. The Soviet Union and its satellites backed down on a threat to boycott the meeting. The Soviet viewpoint is that the matter should go before the UN General Assembly next month.

Howard Green, Canada's external affairs minister, said "greater progress was possible and should have been made" at the 10-power disarmament talks which collapsed at Geneva June 27.

Green said there were a number of points of agreement or near agreement between the two sides that gave hope some progress was being made.

TERRIBLE THREAT

The disarmament commission, Green said, could "make clear to the nuclear powers that the people of the world demand an end to this terrible threat of a nuclear war which hangs over them and demand that disarmament negotiations be resumed forthwith."

French Ambassador Armand Berard in effect supported Green's appraisal that difficulties between the two sides on working out a control system for reducing arms could be eliminated by "patient research."

LODGE PESSIMISTIC

However, Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador, seemed to contradict Green's judgment when he said:

"There were no successful negotiations at Geneva and there will be no successful negotiations here or in Geneva or in the General Assembly next month."

He blamed the Soviet Union.

Found Adrift

Impaired Skipper Fined

VANCOUVER (CP)—The skipper of a fishboat found drifting without lights Monday night in the shipping lane at the entrance to Vancouver harbor was fined $50 Tuesday for operating a vessel while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

John William Retalkin, 46, of suburban North Surrey, owner of the gillnetter ALM-7115, pleaded guilty to the charge.

A search was launched Monday night after another skipper reported Retalkin's boat was missing. A tug taking part in the search found the ALM-7115 drifting without lights off Point Atkinson with the skipper at the wheel.

He blamed the Soviet Union.

Hundreds Held

Castro Raids Navy

HAVANA (UPI)—Premier Fidel Castro cracked down on virtually every Cuban navy installation yesterday in a series of raids and surveillance actions, one of which he led personally.

Castro and a force of army men captured the navy's biggest arsenal, across the bay from Havana, in a dawn raid and arrested its personnel on counter-revolutionary charges.

It was reported that almost every naval installation on the island was placed under surveillance of the army.

The arrested men were reported to number in the hundreds, including many of officer rank and some as high as major.

UN Staff Seized Swedes Ordered Out

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—The Congo government, challenging the United Nations role in this divided country and arresting UN personnel, Tuesday proclaimed six months' martial law for the entire republic.

It also demanded withdrawal of Swedish UN troops.

NON-CONFIDENCE

The moves climaxed a day in which Congolese police and troops struck at UN staff members and Belgians alike in raids that emphasized Premier Patrice Lumumba's declaration of non-confidence in UN efforts to bring order to the Congo.

A menacing crowd of Congolese surrounded a Canadian UN officer and his driver in a jeep outside the central post office. Sqdn-Ldr. Ken Roberts of Ottawa and Cpl. Gordon Mooney of Camp Shilo, Man., sat tight while the Congolese screamed insults and shook their fists at the Canadians. A few of the bolder ones rocked the jeep.

CONGO CRISIS

Lumumba charged that UN forces failed to carry out their duties and made martial law necessary to meet what he called a crisis in the Congo.

In his developing feud with UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, Premier Lumumba has asked for withdrawal of all white forces from Katanga province. He has been especially critical of the Swedes, Hammarskjöld's own countrymen.

POLICE SEARCH

Lumumba's police searches even extended to the main residence housing most of the UN staff and offices.

Eleven members of the UN staff were arrested briefly and scores were searched.

A Congolese army detachment of about 200 men expelled a platoon of 33 Belgian paratroopers who have been based at the UN-guarded Leopoldville airport.

SHOW OF FORCE

The premier's show of force opened about 12 hours after UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld wound up his second visit to the Congo and left for New York to get a Security Council ruling on Lumumba's demand that UN troops back up the premier's authority.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union continued its campaign of criticism of the secretary-general.

Vasily Kuznetsov, Soviet deputy foreign minister, departed from Russian practice by volunteering to reporters the information he had formally criticized the secretary-general's interpretations of Security Council resolutions.

Underwater Swimmer Underway

CALAIS, France (UPI)—Jane Baldasare, a pretty New York housewife, slipped into the English Channel shortly after midnight today to attempt to swim to England—underwater with skin-diving gear.

City-Bound Aircraft Crash-Lands

LANGLEY, Wash. (AP)—A private plane bound for Victoria from Tacoma made a crash landing in a field on Whidbey Island Tuesday when its pilot became lost in murky weather.

Dr. Kay Scott, 38, a woman physician, was taken to an Everett hospital with a back injury. Lt. Marshall Kline, 25, suffered minor cuts.

With them were Dr. and Mrs. Otto Rombouts, who apparently were unhurt.

Olive Oil On Fire Perils Town

PALERMO, Calif. (UPI)—A fire, fed by 30,000 gallons of olive oil, almost engulfed this small northern California town last night, destroying at least 10 homes.

Five hours after it broke out, the blaze was still out of control and was licking through the town, burning grass and trees in the yards of the 2,500 residents.

Sky Spy Powers on Trial Before Soviet Court Today

MOSCOW (UPI)—Francis Gary Powers went on trial today before a Soviet military court, charged with espionage for his May 1 flight over Soviet territory in a U-2 reconnaissance plane.

Powers went before the court on his 31st birthday, facing a possible death sentence for the high-altitude flight that Soviet Premier Khrushchev called "an aggressive act."

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Powers of Pound, Va., and his wife Barbara, 25, were seeing Powers for the first time since before his capture. Prior to the trial, Powers had had no contact with U.S. embassy officials or visitors.

It was plain from the Soviet press campaign building up to the trial that the United States government and not its pilot was facing the military judge and his two assistants. The U.S. government has accepted full responsibility for the U-2 flight, which ended over Sverdlovsk when Soviet anti-aircraft men shot the plane down, more than 1,200 miles inside Russia.

But it is Powers, the son of a Virginia coal miner, former pre-medical student, ex-air force officer, who faces the sentence and who already has undergone three and one-half months of pre-trial confinement.

Under old Soviet law, the death sentence was mandatory for espionage. Now, the sentence can be as light as seven years.

Powers already has pleaded guilty, according to Soviet statements.

But under the Soviet legal system, the trial will go on regardless of the plea.

It's All-Out War Here Today—Against Polio

Today is the day of concentrated offensive in Victoria, in medicine's war against the scourge of poliomyelitis.

The hospitals, the medical association, the public health service—these are ready with their primary weapon: anti-polio vaccine. All they need are their allies: those members of the public who have had no polio shots, or who have not completed the series of three once begun.

From 1 p.m. to 10 p.m., at the nurses' residences of both Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals, doctors and nurses will be ready to administer the vaccine to all comers, and they hope all who need the shots will come.

Already 1960 is shaping up as a major year for polio. Paralytic cases—the ones of which official records are kept—total 103. There have been nine deaths in the province.

Anti-polio shots will hold the total down. They're free; they have no other after-effect; their administration is simple. If you haven't had, or completed, your polio shots, the medical authorities hope you'll see them today.

Little Boy Needs Blood

Here's Your Opportunity

Rash of Victorians who have offered to donate blood to assist a nine-year-old Kamloops boy suffering from haemophilia will be able to do so at Victoria Red Cross blood donor clinic Thursday and Friday.

Generous Victorians quickly offered to give blood after a front-page story in The Daily Colonist last Sunday reported how the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kennedy had received more than 110 pints of blood since a minor operation July 5.

"Few people realize that we don't have the facilities to take blood except at our special clinics," a Red Cross official said yesterday.

The blood clinic will be open on Thursday from 2.30 to 4.30 p.m. and Friday from 1.30 to 4.30 p.m. and both nights from 7 to 9.30 p.m.

The Red Cross is offering baby-sitting service and a television set has been donated to keep donors from missing their favorite programs.

The clinic, to be held at 1046 Fort, has a two-day goal of 500 pints.

"This is the opportunity for all those wishing to give Type B blood to the young Kennedy boy," said an official.

Big Cod Lunges Skindiver Scoots

Skindiver Jim Frost, 234 Acorn, had a fright Saturday while spearfishing in Tod Inlet waters. A big cod he estimated at 40 pounds made a lunge for him and grabbed one of his flippers.

"I got out of there in a hurry," Frost, who had speared four smaller ling cod, said.

Charges Mud-Slinging

CCF Leader Unopposed In Cowichan

DUNCAN — Robert Strachan was unanimously nominated the Cowichan-Newcastle riding's CCF candidate in the next election during the first two minutes of a meeting here last night, and then he spent two hours promising a vigorous but clean campaign before a jubilant crowd of nearly 200.

In his speech, marking the start of the CCF campaign in the province, he charged that the Socreds have already started a campaign of mud-slinging "of the worst kind."

DIRTY CAMPAIGN — Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi and Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston have predicted a "dirty campaign," Mr. Strachan said, and added: "If they say it, they must intend to make it so. I'm sorry indeed that the Social Credit has started it."

He charged that a Social Credit member said he was in the employ of a foreign power to cause strife between labor and management.

WORST TYPE — And at Alberni, CCF candidate John Squire—a person with "outstanding integrity"—has been termed a Bolshevik, which he claimed was the worst type of mud-slinging.

The CCF party will "stick to its principles" because it "wouldn't stoop to these things."

Later in his speech Mr. Strachan charged that the B.C. Federation of Trade and Industry organization and its "dirty, rotten practices" is only a front organization for the Social Credit party.

HOT WATER — "This is a hot water election, and despite anything they say we have candidates that I am proud of," said Mr. Strachan.

And still later he said the CCF is fighting big business "that is determined to take control of North America. These are the people who feel it is alright."

McKvay Bound For Convention

Thirty-three B.C. Toastmaster Clubs will be represented at the annual international convention from Thursday to Saturday at Atlantic City, Georgia, by their recently elected governor James McKvay, owner and manager of Nu-Way Cleaners in Victoria.

No Fire Interference Wanted in Alberni

ALBERNI—Council does not condone any interference with the work of its volunteer firemen, according to a resolution passed at Monday night's meeting.

The motion, proposed by Alderman Gordon Lundine, warned that any unauthorized person who responds to fire calls or interferes with the progress of firemen either at the fire hall or at the site of a fire will be penalized according to law.

Alderman Lundine reported that a person had been seen attempting to enter the fire hall to answer the telephone on the occasion of a recent call. He said that there are 18 highly trained men on the brigade and that outside interference is likely to hamper the firemen in performance of their duties.

He pointed out that property and, occasionally, lives are at stake during a fire. "Please do not interfere unless requested," is the message which should be put across to the public, he declared.

BCE NEVER LOSES — "For longer than I care to remember the B.C. Electric has dominated every section of life in this province. Through economic strength they have managed to get their way every time they wanted it. No matter what the party. Until now, the BCE has never lost an election," he charged.

Mr. Strachan added: "It seems that as long as there is a natural resource left and a Social Credit (government) they will want to give that away."

On the development of the Peace and Columbia rivers he said that if both are needed, they should be built in stages under the B.C. Hydro which is "perfectly feasible."

Four Times

Satellite In Sight Tonight

Clear skies over Victoria tonight will give residents a chance to see the orbiting balloon satellite Echo I at 10.29 p.m., 12.29 a.m., 2.26 a.m. and 4.24 a.m.

Officials of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here said the giant balloon would appear in the southwest about 40 degrees up from the horizon. It travels from west to east. It should be almost overhead on the second pass. Times of the satellite's appearances should be about 10 minutes earlier on successive nights in its present orbit.

Other News Of Island Page 20

first aim should be to get a few dollars ahead. It would be a nice thing to be in the position to loosen up a bit."

Former exhibition president Archie Stevenson said in the past engraving costs ran between $300 and $500 and that awards were made at a dinner. "Even then we had trouble getting people to come to get their trophies," he added.

ALBERNI—Residents were using water at the rate of 425 gallons per person per day during the recent hot spell, Alderman Fred Bishop reported at council meeting.

He pointed out that new systems are designed to supply the population at a rate of 250 gallons. Alberni's new system went into operation this year and no watering restrictions have been imposed.

"It was nice to find that we were able to satisfy the excessive demand and it is hoped that it has eased the pain of the raise in water rates," Alderman Bishop said.

Fisherman Missing

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — A fisherman from Massett, B.C., is missing and presumed dead after what RCMP believe was an explosion or quick-spreading fire aboard the 30-foot gillnetter Cassiar 29.

Richard Adkins was alone aboard the vessel but has not been found. The ship was seen burning but by the time other fishing vessels arrived she was sinking.

Large Plug in Making

Septic Tank Owner May Meet Overflow

A large plug is being prepared for use on a Central Saanich culvert. It will be driven home in hopes it will force an errant ratepayer to have his septic tank repaired.

Overflow from the tank runs into a municipal ditch causing the errant ratepayer's neighbors to be choked-up with more than rage.

Acting on complaints the works committee approached the tank neglecter a number of times with no results. Plugging the culvert will cause the tank overflow to run back on the ratepayer's property. The committee hope the move will prompt him to look into the problem with more enthusiasm.

awards will be made at 11.30 a.m. today aboard the destroyer-escort HMCS Assiniboine. Major trophies will go to each winning ship or establishment, while miniature awards will be presented to individual members of the winning teams.

Leader Beats Big Drum for CCF

CCF leader Robert Strachan just couldn't blow his own horn at the Lake Cowichan Day celebrations during the weekend but he sure was a whiz at whacking the big, bass drum. Royal Canadian Air Cadets No. 89 Squadron from Victoria first provided Mr. Strachan with a flute—which the CCF chieftain promptly used to blow a sour note. The two-day celebrations were sponsored by Lake Cowichan's United Organizations.—(W. H. Gold photo.)

'Give-Away' Given —And Given Again

SLEEPY TIME BILL: Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan spent an hour last night refuting opposition charges of a resources give-away in dealings with the Wenner-Gren interests then bravely prepared to face up to the usual question period at an Oak Bay Social Credit meeting.

He was hardly prepared for the very first query.

Looking somewhat stunned, he listened to fellow cabinet minister William Chant, chairman of the meeting, ask him if he would mind explaining opposition charges of a resources give-away to the Wenner-Gren interests.

In spite of cries from the audience of "He's just finished telling us all that," Mr. Kiernan briefly went over the ground again.

NOT RUNNING: Close friends of veteran member of the legislature Tom Uphill of Fernie say he is adamant that he will not stand again.

"Had my time," Mr. Uphill is quoted as saying.

The 86-year-old independent-labor member has become a B.C. political institution and it is hard to imagine a session of the legislature without Tom Uphill.

A former mayor of Fernie, he has represented his riding for 40 years.

He has been elected 11 times, sat in the legislature under seven premiers and dined with eight lieutenant-governors. The CCF party, which has never opposed Mr. Uphill, Monday night nominated a candidate in Fernie for the first time.

EAGER SUPPORTER: Victoria Social Credit campaign workers were nailing up a sign high above their headquarters at Johnson and Broad yesterday evening when a crowd of some 25 gathered to cheer them on.

One supporter was so keen to see the show get on the road that he climbed a 10-foot ladder to shake the hand of one of the banner hoisters.

NOT RU: NING: Vancouver Mayor Tom Alsbury has given up plans of running as an independent in the Sept. 12 provincial election because "he feels he can accomplish more on the outside than sitting in the opposition benches."

He will speak on behalf of a few candidates of various parties who have clearly indicated their determination to press for a better deal for local government.

Provincial Election Notebook

PARTY PLATFORM: Jack Higgins, Communist candidate for Comox, feels that the most decisive issue in the current election campaign is the question of peace or war.

While it is true the Comox RCAF base had improved the standard of living in the area, he admitted, it had also made the area subject to attack and devastation.

His solution: Use the base as a port of entry for Communist Chinese imports.

BANNERS FUELED: City council yesterday decided not only to ban campaign banners Oak Bay candidates wanted to string across city streets but banners city candidates wanted to hoist as well.

Ald. M. H. Mooney failed to persuade his colleagues that "we should let our candidates do what they like to promote interest in the election, stir people up."

ODDS AND ENDS: Saanich

Progressive Conservative candidate Victor Virginia has opened campaign headquarters at 3280 Douglas. Liberals are queuing up to win the nomination to contest Premier Bennett's riding of South Okanagan. Four men are after the nomination — television technician Sigh Kobayashi, furniture dealer S. F. Angus, schoolteacher Joe Barre and farmer Hugh Fitzpatrick.

Oak Bay Social Crediters are holding a constituency tea at party headquarters Friday afternoon, at corner of Monterey and Oak Bay Avenue. Candidate George Murdoch and his wife will be on hand at a public house meeting at the home of Mr. Norman Shillito, 2340 Amity Drive, today at 8 p.m.

The Liberal bandwagon quickly ground into gear. The meeting is to be held Aug. 31 at the Dominion Theatre. The Liberal platform will be fully explained to the younger set.

SKY'S THE LIMIT: Victoria CCF have a large sign painted on the ceiling of the Woodsworth Hall, Courtney Street. It reads: "You have a $555,000,000 provincial debt hanging over your head."

QUESTION MARK: Oak Bay Social Credit candidate George Murdoch, making his first campaign speech in his constituency last night, left dedicated party members asking one pertinent question—Is George a Social Credit?

He admitted he was first asked to accept the nomination of "one of the old line parties." Then, he added, he was asked if he would let his name stand as the Socred nominee.

"Then I asked myself where I could do the best work for the constituents and for the municipalities. . . I knew I couldn't do very much from the opposition."

He admitted what he termed the "record of the government" but never once did he declare himself a true-blue Social Credit.

BANNERS FUELED: City council yesterday decided not only to ban campaign banners Oak Bay candidates wanted to string across city streets but banners city candidates wanted to hoist as well.

Ald. M. H. Mooney failed to persuade his colleagues that "we should let our candidates do what they like to promote interest in the election, stir people up."

Admiral at Helm of Winning Boat

Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch-Noyes was at the tiller of the first 29-foot racer to cross the finish line in the Salorette event in the RCN Pacific Command annual regatta held yesterday at Esquimalt.

Members on the staff of the Flag Officer, Pacific Coast, also manned the winning boat in the whaler race which drew 17 entries. Cox's of the winning whaler was Lt.-Cmdr. Fred Henshaw.

In the 14-foot dinghy sailing event the entry from the frigate HMCS New Glasgow, coxed by Lieut. G. B. Stanford, was first home.

A total of 150 personnel of the Command took part in the two-hour regatta.

Despite poor weather, the annual event was one of the most successful ever staged

here, said a naval spokesman. Only casualty of the afternoon was a dinghy overturned by a sudden gust of wind. A harbor craft, acting as guard boat, quickly righted the boat and picked up its occupants.

REV. AND MRS. MELVIN SWARTOUT

East Ucluelet

Resting Place Of Pioneer Discovered

After 40 years, the last resting place of a pioneer west coast missionary, Melvin Swartout, has been located.

It was found in the Indian reserve cemetery at East Ucluelet, mainly through the efforts of Mr. P. Challenor, of Victoria, and Miss Marian MacMillan, of Vancouver, who for the past few weeks have been conducting a summer school at Ucluelet under the auspices of the United Church of Canada.

SPIRITUAL NEEDS

The Rev. Melvin Swartout, a stout Presbyterian, went to Alberni in 1890 and for many years afterwards tended the spiritual needs of whites and Indians alike on Barkley Sound.

The sailboat he used to visit his charges was thought by many at that time to carry too much sail and it is believed that this was the direct cause of his death.

NEVER SEEN ALIVE

He visited the home of H. J. Hillier at Toquart Bay on July 11, 1904, and left there for Village Island at the entrance to Barkley Sound. He was never seen again alive.

A search was organized and a few days later the wrecked boat was found. It was believed that a squall had caught the big sail, whipped it around and knocked Swartout overboard.

Weeks later, his body was found washed ashore at Florencia Bay, which was then known as Wreck Bay.

He was buried beside his beloved church on the Ucluelet Indian Reserve.

Duncan RR2 Will Be Split

DUNCAN—Starting Monday Rural Route 2 will be split into two deliveries, said postmaster Robert Corney, yesterday.

The area covered by Gibbins Cowichan Lake Road, Old Hillcrest, Auchinachie, Drinkwater west of Soomenos Road, and Soomenos between Sherman and Auchinachie will remain as Duncan Rural Route No. 2.

Contractor for the route is Bertram Thorpe, said Mr. Corney. An addition will be made providing rural service to Cowichan Lake Road between Berkey's Corner and Gibbins Road.

A new service, known as Rural Route 4, will start at Islay to Phillips and Mary to Sherman, and will cover all the area north and east of Soomenos. Contractor is Mrs. Sheila Anderson.

Mr. Corney requests that rural mail patrons, when giving their postal address, include their road and street number.

Joint Dog Pound

ALBERNI — Authority was given Monday night by Alberni council for the city clerk to act with Port Alberni's clerk in making joint representation to the department of municipalities pertaining to joint operation of a dog pound.

The action was taken on a motion of Alderman Thomas S. Barnett which Mayor Mabel Anderson refused to accept. Alderman Gordon Lundine and the mayor voted against the motion, and the mayor asked that the negative votes be recorded.

Mayor Anderson claimed that Section 880 of the Municipal Act gave to the municipal authority to deal with any question arising between two cities and proposed that she

Years of Worrying Over For Duncan Kiwanians

DUNCAN — Two years of worrying and sweat ended yesterday for Duncan Kiwanis Village Society officials with the notification that the government's Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation had approved their project.

The government agency will loan the society $34,500, making it possible for an immediate start, said Jack Hindmarch, society president.

The village will be in the 700-block Trunk Road.

Total cost of the project will be $59,397 for eight one-bedroom units complete with ranges, refrigerators and laundry facilities with a completion date set for December.

Estimated rental will be $36.75 per unit monthly, plus light and heat.

Application forms will be available in the "very near future" for couples whose total yearly income is between $726 and $2,340, CM & HC officials decided.

Financing breakdown is: $34,500 from CM & HC repayable over 40 years, $18,454 grant from the provincial government and the balance from the Duncan Kiwanis Club which contributed the land and

Bodies Recovered From Muddy Lake

VANCOUVER (CP)—The bodies of four men were recovered late Tuesday from the muddy, boulder-strewn lake in the British Columbia interior where they met their death.

Pacific Western Airlines pilot Capt. A. J. Moul and a skindiver found the bodies at a spot in Lorna Lake, 120 miles northeast of here, where a PWA Beaver float plane apparently crashed on takeoff Monday.

Slide Tomb Isolated By Weather

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bad weather over Mount Waddington, 170 miles northwest of here, has forced postponement of a planned aerial search of the 13,000-foot peak where four climbers are believed to have been killed July 30 by an avalanche.

RCMP will make a check of the mountain face from the air to see if any of the four might have escaped.

Pilot of the plane was veteran James Butler Marshall, 46, of Kamloops.

The names of the others, prospectors for Canadian Petroleum Exploration Company of Calgary, were not released pending notification of next of kin.

The plane crashed Monday but PWA did not release news of it until Tuesday morning. It said Marshall had flown the men into the lake Monday and had cleared with the Kamloops PWA office in the early afternoon.

A plane was sent over the lake Monday night and it reported the crash.

Fish Runs Afoul Of Law

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police were glad to get rid of one exhibit after James Alexander Steele was fined $50 for theft Tuesday.

They returned to a city supermarket the packet of kippers stolen from there July 22.

Study Started

First Step Taken For Moon Lab

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—The first step toward establishing an international laboratory on the moon was taken Tuesday by the International Academy of Astronautics.

Dr. Theodore Von Karman of Pasadena, Calif., director of the academy, said a committee has been formed to work on the moon laboratory project.

He added that the actual laboratory can be established before 15 to 25 years from now.

However, the committee will tackle such problems as how to build the laboratory and how to make it habitable for man.

Russia's space scientist, Prof. Leonid Sedov, told 700 delegates from 33 countries he hopes the world's research workers can co-operate because future rocket projects would be too costly for any one nation.

Sedov added that Russia plans more rockets to the moon and to Mars and Venus.

Found Adrift

Impaired Skipper Fined

VANCOUVER (CP)—The skipper of a fishboat found drifting without lights Monday night in the shipping lane at the entrance to Vancouver harbor was fined $50 Tuesday for operating a vessel while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

John William Retalkin, 46, of suburban North Surrey, owner of the gillnetter ALM-7115, pleaded guilty to the charge.

A search was launched Monday night after another skipper reported Retalkin's boat was missing. A tug taking part in the search found the ALM-7115 drifting without lights off Point Atkinson with the skipper at the wheel.

However, the committee will tackle such problems as how to build the laboratory and how to make it habitable for man.

Russia's space scientist, Prof. Leonid Sedov, told 700 delegates from 33 countries he hopes the world's research workers can co-operate because future rocket projects would be too costly for any one nation.

Sedov added that Russia plans more rockets to the moon and to Mars and Venus.

Already 1960 is shaping up as a major year for polio. Paralytic cases—the ones of which official records are kept—total 105. There have been nine deaths in the province.

Anti-polio shots will hold the total down. They're free; they have no other after-effect; their administration is simple. If you haven't had, or completed, your polio shots, the medical authorities hope you'll see them today.

Green at UN

Reopen Talks On Arms Cut Canada Urges

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada Tuesday demanded new negotiations on disarmament and the United States offered to stop making fissionable material for nuclear weapons if the Soviet Union would do the same.

The Soviet response was cool—without a ban on weapons, there would be no point in ending the production of nuclear materials, said Russia's deputy foreign minister, Vasily Kuznetsov.

BACKED DOWN

These views were put forward at a meeting of the UN disarmament commission on which all 82 members of the United Nations are represented. The Soviet Union and its satellites backed down on a threat to boycott the meeting. The Soviet viewpoint is that the matter should go before the UN General Assembly next month.

Howard Green, Canada's external affairs minister, said "greater progress was possible and should have been made" at the 10-power disarmament talks which collapsed at Geneva June 27.

Green said there were a number of points of agreement or near agreement between the two sides that gave hope some progress was being made.

TERRIBLE THREAT

The disarmament commission, Green said, could "make clear to the nuclear powers that the people of the world demand an end to this terrible threat of a nuclear war which hangs over them and demand that disarmament negotiations be resumed forthwith."

French Ambassador Armand Berard in effect supported Green's appraisal that difficulties between the two sides on working out a control system for reducing arms could be eliminated by "patient research."

LODGE PESSIMISTIC

However, Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador, seemed to contradict Green's judgment when he said: "There were no successful negotiations at Geneva and there will be no successful negotiations here, or in Geneva or in the General Assembly next month."

He blamed the Soviet Union.

Castro Raids Navy

HAVANA (UPI)—Premier Fidel Castro cracked down on virtually every Cuban navy installation yesterday in a series of raids and surveillance actions, one of which he led personally.

Castro and a force of army men captured the navy's biggest arsenal, across the bay from Havana, in a dawn raid and arrested its personnel on counter-revolutionary charges.

It was reported that almost every naval installation on the island was placed under surveillance of the army.

The arrested men were reported to number in the hundreds, including many of officer rank and some as high as major.

Martial Law Congo Move

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—The Congo government, challenging the United Nations role in this divided country and arresting UN personnel, Tuesday proclaimed six months' martial law for the entire republic.

It also demanded withdrawal of Swedish UN troops.

The moves climaxed a day in which Congolese police and troops struck at UN staff members and Belgians alike in raids that emphasized Premier Patrice Lumumba's declaration of non-confidence in UN efforts to bring order to the Congo.

MENACING CROWD

A menacing crowd of Congolese surrounded a Canadian UN officer and his driver in a jeep outside the central post office, Sqdn. Ldr. Ken Roberts of Ottawa and Cpl. Gordon Mooney of Camp Shilo, Man., sat tight while the Congolese screamed insults and shook their fists at the Canadians. A few of the bolder ones rocked the jeep.

CONGO CRISIS

Lumumba charged that UN forces failed to carry out their duties and made martial law necessary to meet what he called a crisis in the Congo.

In his developing feud with UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, Premier Lumumba has asked for withdrawal of all white forces from Katanga province. He has been especially critical of the Swedes, Hammarskjold's own countrymen.

POLICE SEARCH

Lumumba's police searches even extended to the main residence housing most of the UN staff and offices.

Eleven members of the UN staff were arrested briefly and scores were searched.

A Congolese army detachment of about 200 men expelled a platoon of 33 Belgian paratroopers who have been based at the UN-guarded Leopoldville airport.

SHOW OF FORCE

The premier's show of force opened about 12 hours after UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold wound up his second visit to the Congo and left for New York to get a Security Council ruling on Lumumba's demand that UN troops back up the premier's authority.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union continued its campaign of criticism of the secretary-general.

Vasily Kuznetsov, Soviet deputy foreign minister, departed from Russian practice by volunteering to reporters the information he had formally criticized the secretary-general's interpretations of Security Council resolutions.

Underwater Swimmer Underway

CALAIS, France (UPI)—Jane Baldasare, a pretty New York housewife, slipped into the English Channel shortly after midnight today to attempt to swim to England—underwater with skin-diving gear.

City-Bound Aircraft Crash-Lands

LANGLEY, Wash. (AP)—A private plane bound for Victoria from Tacoma made a crash landing in a field on Whidbey Island Tuesday when its pilot became lost in murky weather.

Dr. Kay Scott, 38, a woman physician, was taken to an Everett hospital with a back injury. Lt. Marshall Kline, 25, suffered minor cuts.

With them were Dr. and Mrs. Otto Rombouts, who apparently were unhurt.

Olive Oil On Fire Perils Town

PALERMO, Calif. (UPI)—A fire, fed by 30,000 gallons of olive oil, almost engulfed this small northern California town last night, destroying at least 10 homes.

Five hours after it broke out, the blaze was still out of control and was licking through the town, burning grass and trees in the yards of the 2,500 residents.

Sky Spy Powers on Trial Before Soviet Court Today

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. U-2 pilot Francis Powers stood up in a Soviet court today and pleaded guilty to a charge of espionage. (See also Page 21.)

The flyer—31 years old today—entered the courtroom improvised in the Hall of Columns of the Soviet Trade Union Building in downtown Moscow at 10:04 a.m. and took his place in the prisoners' box in answer to a summons from his three judges in military uniform.

Powers appeared to be in good health and showed no signs of nervousness.

He wore a well fitting, single-breasted navy blue suit and a dark red necktie. His dark hair was in a crew cut.

He carried a light blue cardboard folder which apparently contained material for his defence.

Under the blazing light of 50 crystal chandeliers and before an audience of 1,500 invited Soviet citizens, diplomatic observers and foreign and Soviet reporters, the trial began with the three judges questioning Powers about his family background and education.

He gave his name, home and profession and said his last place of work was Adana, Turkey. He said he had no objection to his two Russian interpreters.

In the rear of the hall were his wife Barbara, 25, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Powers. After the first glimpse of him, Barbara hid her face in her hands.

Under old Soviet law, the death sentence was mandatory for espionage. Now, the sentence can be as light as seven years.

It's All-Out War Here Today—Against Polio

Today is the day of concerted offensive in Victoria, in medicine's war against the scourge of poliomyelitis.

The hospitals, the medical association, the public health services—these are ready with their primary weapon: anti-polio vaccine. All they need are their allies: those members of the public who have had no polio shots, or who have not completed the series of three once begun.

From 1 p.m. to 10 p.m., at the nurses' residences of both Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's hospitals, doctors and nurses will be ready to administer the vaccine to all comers, and they hope all who need the shots will come.

Already 1960 is shaping up as a major year for polio. Paralytic cases—the ones of which official records are kept—total 105. There have been nine deaths in the province.

Anti-polio shots will hold the total down. They're free; they have no other after-effect; their administration is simple. If you haven't had, or completed, your polio shots, the medical authorities hope you'll see them today.
